SIX BLOCKS OF CITY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Portland, Ore., Sustains Loss of $600,000 With Only One-Third Insured.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PORTLAND, ORE., June 22.—A fire that started shortly before midnight last night in the Phoenix iron works, formerly the Wolff & Zwicker plant, was turned for four hours and destroyed six blocks of buildings, valued at $600,000. The insurance amounted to about $200,000. It was long after daylight before the fire burned itself out.

Ten minutes after the fire was discovered the entire plant of the Phoenix works was in flames. The fire spread to Johnston's ship yard and to the East Side Lumber Company's mill, destroying both. Several hundred thousand feet of dry lumber in the mill yard fed the flames.

In the Johnston ship yard a schooner awaiting repairs and a barge under construction were destroyed, together with a lot of valuable machinery. The fire spread to the east, taking in the warehouse of Pasten, Grendorff & Co., implement dealers. The Standard Oil Company's warehouse and two oil tanks were next destroyed.

Two spans of the Madison street bridge across the Willamette river were burned and fell into the river. Then the warehouse and freight depot of the Portland City and Oregon street railway, adjoining the bridge on the west, were attacked and quickly destroyed.

The fire department was badly handicapped by lack of water, and it was after 2 o'clock this morning before the fire was under control. The engines could not reach the river, and the main water pipes being too small, the supply was inadequate.

All the buildings destroyed were wooden structures, except the warehouse of the Standard Oil Company and that of Parlin Grendorff & Co., which were of brick.

THE QUAKERS IN BAD SHAPE FOR CONTEST

Unless They Succeed in Getting 60 Delegates, Kerr Is Whipped.

RURAL ROOTERS IN A MAJORITY

They Are for Pattison in Hopes He Can Pull Through Local Tickets.

GUTHRIE CAN HAVE THE SECOND PLACE

By WALTER J. CHRISTY,
Staff Correspondent.

Erie, Pa., June 22.—If Philadelphia can increase her representation in the Democratic state convention from 29 to 60 delegates, Robert E. Pattison may not be the nominee for governor. The honor of heading the ticket would then fall to George W. Guthrie of Pittsburgh or James Kerr of Clearfield. This will be the real fight of the convention.

The seating of 60 delegates from Philadelphia would mean that the control of the party has been wrested from Col. James M. Guffey. While he has never indicated where he will stand on the proposition, it is a safe prediction that he is unalterably opposed to setting aside the apportionment of delegates made by State Chairman W. T. Creasy. By such action he would be playing into the hands of his enemies.

The country districts are opposed to Philadelphia having any more votes than a strict interpretation of the rules allow. It will be the country delegates who will be in the majority in this convention, so it is hard to see how the Quaker City opponents of Guffey can hope to be successful.

Guffey for Pattison.

There is no longer any question about where Guffey and his friends stand on the gubernatorial nomination. The colonel is for Pattison. If he had not had a leaning toward the ex-governor, the present situation would force him in with Pattison. With ex-Judge Gordon, James Kerr, Congressman Howard Mutchler, ex-Judge D. L. Kerbs and the others conspiring to capture the Democratic organization, under the pretense that they are opposed to Pattison because he is not the strongest man, Guffey is playing good politics by taking up the Philadelphian.

Outside the two big cities, the Democrats have the idea that Pattison is the man of the hour. To attempt to sidetrack him, unless it would be with his full approval, would cause a howl from one end of the state to the other.

Kerr and the other anti-Pattison men who were expected at Cambridge Springs today, did not put in an appearance. Congressman J. K. P. Hall, Capt. John B. Keenan, John B. Head, J. Wood Clark and others are still awaiting their arrival. Controller John B. Larkin of Pittsburgh is at Cambridge. He says he is at the springs for his health, and is not in touch with the situation. He and Clark had a conference this afternoon about the Guthrie candidacy. The best Clark has to offer is hopefulness. Kerr, Gordon and others will come to this end of the state tomorrow.

Guffey Men Hope for Harmony.

There will be a conference here or at Cambridge. The Guffey Heutenants have hopes that they can persuade Kerr to drop the fight and agree to harmony.

William E. Wallace of Clearfield is here tonight. He says Kerr will be in Erie tomorrow and will then announce whether he intends to become an active candidate. The Kerr men say the only thing which will cause them to lay down their arms will be the removal of Pattison from the field. They say they are willing to agree upon any other man and support him cheerfully. This proposition will be made to Guffey tomorrow. They admit, however, that it is necessary to increase the Philadelphia delegation before they get in proper battle trim. While the Quaker crowd claim they should have 106 delegates in the convention they are willing to compromise on 60.

Congressman Hall had been expected to reach Erie at midnight declaring that Pattison should be nominated. It was decided not to issue it this evening. The friends of Kerr say the Clearfield man is responsible for causing the congressman to shift, and that Hall will be forced to back Kerr. There is not much likelihood of Hall shifting so long as Guffey is for Pattison.

The Hall-Pattison Understanding.

Long ago the congressman and the ex-governor made an agreement. They were both contemplating entering the field. It was decided that under certain conditions Hall was to have a clear track, but if the wheel of political fortune turned the other way, Pattison was to become the candidate. Fortune favored the ex-governor and Hall is keeping his agreement. He is for Pattison so long as the Philadelphian is in the running.

It has been plain ever since Erie was selected as the convention city that it was the intention of those in control of the party to nominate Pattison. This is the stronghold of the Pattison sentiment. It is also far removed from Philadelphia and great words of Gordon rooters can be run in for little more than heavy expense.

The entire northwest is standing by Pattison. It is probable they are for him much for the same reason that the leaders desire his. The men in control of the organizations are looking with longing eyes on the next senatorial election. They believe that Pattison, as the candidate for governor, will do more to assist in the election of Democratic members of

CHINESE WARSHIP ENCOUNTERS FATE OF CRUISER MAINE

Blows Up in Yang-Tse River, and All but Two Are Killed or Drowned.

SANK IN HALF A MINUTE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, June 22.—A dispatch to the Central News from Shanghai says the Chinese cruiser Kai-Chi was wrecked today by a terrific explosion while lying in the Yang-Tse river.

The Kai-Chi sank in 30 seconds and 150 officers and men on board were killed or drowned. Only two men on board the cruiser escaped death.

STRAWBOARD COMBINE GOES WITHOUT HARTJES

Promoters Failed to Produce Over $2,000,000 in Cash Demanded by Pittsburgh Concern.

The strawboard consolidation, with a capital of $52,000,000, is to be an accomplished fact by July 1. The company will form with the Hartje interests of Pittsburgh, whose business was under option for a time on the outside. Hartje Bros. have for many years been among the leading jobbers of paper, and in recent years entered the manufacture of heavy paper as the Hartje Paper Manufacturing Company, with extensive works at Steubenville, O., which are now being enlarged.

The Hartje interests, exclusive of their Pittsburgh realty, were under option at a sum upward of $2,000,000. The option was taken with the understanding that it was to be closed on a cash basis, and the Hartjes insisted on a cash settlement. The promoters allowed the option on the Pittsburgh interest to lapse, and to avoid creating a funded debt by the issuance of sufficient bonds to cover the purchase price, they decided to give up the plan to take over the Hartje interests. The strawboard combine will operate under the laws of New Jersey, with general headquarters in New York. There will be absorbed 26 concerns scattered throughout the country east of the Mississippi river. The company will be known as the United Box, Board and Paper Company.

The deal has been on for nearly a year and options have been renewed several times. The fact that the option on the Hartje property was allowed to lapse was regarded as indicating that the deal would fall through, but is explained in the determination to go along without this property.

Under the plan, which contemplated the absorption of the Pittsburgh interests, it was intended to capitalize at $57,000,000.

Hartje Bros. are now having erected at Wood street and Second avenue and adjoining their old property in Wood street, a new building which they will occupy in their jobbing trade.

Silk Workers at West Hoboken Decide to Go on Strike—Officers Prepare for Trouble.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, June 22.—Twelve hundred silk workers employed in the Hudson county, N. J., mills, met tonight at West Hoboken, and decided not to go to work tomorrow morning. These workers represented about 50 per cent of all the employes in the mills of that section. The move is made to express sympathy with the Paterson mill workers who are out.

Those at the meeting declared no violence would be attempted, but as soon as the police heard of the action taken they made preparation to protect all workers who want to go to the mills.

Mayor Groth of Union Hill, N. J., swore in 300 special policemen today as a precautionary measure against any trouble that may arise in his town tomorrow. The same step was taken by the authorities of North Bergen. All these places are contiguous to Paterson.

The Steam Yacht Chartered by Mr. Schwab and Built for Khedive of Egypt at New York.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(Special.)—Col. Francis Leland's steam yacht Safa-el-Bahr, New York Yacht club, now under charter to Charles M. Schwab, arrived at this port tonight from Naples, whence she sailed on May 29. The Safa-el-Bahr was designed and built by A. & J. Inglis of Glasgow in 1894 and is 221 feet 8 inches over all, 187 feet on the water line, 27 feet beam and 15 feet 3 inches deep. She is fitted with triple expansion engines, having cylinders 18 inches, 29 inches and 48 inches in diameter by 36 inches stroke.

The yacht was built for the khedive of Egypt and was purchased by Col. Leland about two years ago, who has used her in cruising in foreign waters. Mr. Schwab, it is understood, will use the yacht during the summer on the Atlantic coast. Safa-el-Bahr in English is "the Joy of the Sea."

GORDON IS NOT AT ODDS WITH COL. GUFFEY

The Boom for Kerr Is No Proof of Disloyalty to Committeeman.

UTTERS KIND WORDS FOR CLEARFILD'S SON

That County Would Have Been for Hall Had He Remained on Ticket.

SAYS KERR NOW IS BEST MAN AVAILABLE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 22.—Before leaving for Erie tonight ex-Judge Gordon took occasion to deny the stories that reached here from Pittsburgh that he had participated in an anti-Guffey conference of Democrats at Cambridge Springs. He also expressed himself as strongly favoring the nomination of James Kerr for governor. When asked about the Cambridge Springs story Mr. Gordon said:

"Yes, I am going to Erie, and as you see I am here and not at Cambridge Springs, where the Pittsburgh dispatches represent me as being engaged in a wicked conspiracy to unhorse or do some other dreadful thing to Colonel Guffey. The fact is I have not been at Cambridge Springs attending an anti-Guffey conference, and I know of no such conference being held there or elsewhere. Nevertheless one of today's papers says that because of this fictitious anti-Guffey movement the colonel has determined to declare himself for a particular candidate, so that no other can be nominated except over his political dead body.

"What bosh—not to use a harsher phrase—all this is! Yet there can be no doubt that all these fictitious stories are deliberately concocted with the purpose of inducing Colonel Guffey to believe that he must force the nomination of a certain candidate in order to preserve his personal leadership. It is a pure game of bamboozle, and no intelligent man should be deceived by it. Nobody, so far as I know, entertains the thought or purpose of making any warfare upon Colonel Guffey's party primacy, either now or hereafter; certainly, no one in the ranks of those who advocate the nomination of James Kerr for governor. If there exists such a purpose anywhere, it is within the bosom of the forces that are now using his name to further their own ends and that want him to assert the powers of a boss and force a particular nomination.

"While on this subject, let me say that the presentation of Mr. Kerr's name by his home county, Clearfield, was the most natural thing in the world. Why should it be taken as an offense by any leader that a Democratic constituency should urge a 'favorite son' for a party honor? If Congressman Hall had remained a candidate, Clearfield would have been for him. When he withdrew it placed the name of Kerr in the front for the consideration of the convention.

"Instantly the friends of a certain candidate loudly declare that such action is disloyal to Guffey, is intended to undermine him, was without his approval, and is, therefore, factional, etc. No sane friend of the national committeeman would be guilty of the folly of attributing such results to his leadership as that to declare for a candidate without his approval is a party crime. James Kerr I have always understood, was Colonel Guffey's personal friend and frequent political adviser.

"Personally, I believe Mr. Kerr is far and away the best man for the Democracy to nominate. He is a plain, straightforward, upright man, whose life is clean and honorable, and he would be the peer of his Republican opponent in respect to the private virtues that make up personal character. There is nothing in James Kerr's life that would need defense or explanation after his nomination. He is no pretender. There is nothing of the sham about him, nothing of the demagogue, nothing of the hypocrite. He stands four-square in the simple rectitude of a truthful life."

WRECK KILLS TWO.

Passenger Train Strikes an Open Switch Near Ashton, Ia.

ST. PAUL, MINN., June 22.—A passenger train on the Sioux City branch of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha railroad jumped the track near Ashton, Ia., about 1:45 a. m. Two trainmen were killed, five others seriously hurt and a number of passengers received minor injuries. The dead are: C. J. Robinson, Sioux City, mail clerk, and Fireman Barrett. The latter was scalded by escaping steam and died shortly after being taken from under the engine.

The passengers injured were attended by surgeons brought to the scene on a wrecking train, and all were able to continue their journey.

The cause of the wreck is said to have been a misplaced switch.

QUAY FORCED TO KEEP UP FIGHT FOR STATEHOOD

If He Drops It, the Democrats Will Take It Up Quickly.

MAY NOT COME HERE TILL ADJOURNMENT

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
603 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.

Senator Quay said tonight he might not be able to make his intended visit to Pittsburgh and Beaver until congress adjourns, which may not be for two weeks yet. He is obliged to remain here by two legislative items in which he is especially interested.

The first is the omnibus statehood bill. That is scheduled to come up in the senate tomorrow. When Senator Quay agreed last Thursday to allow the question to go over until tomorrow, he also announced that he might not press it further. This was seized upon by the Democrats, who then announced that if Senator Quay did not press his motion, one of their number would. Consequently, after starting the contest the senator finds that he may not be able to let go of it, and that the fight may come up tomorrow anyway.

He is not eager for a vote, as his count indicates that his motion will be defeated by three or four votes. Senatorial courtesy is a great institution, and in this instance it has been invoked to prevent the snubbing of the territorial committee, which would be the result if Senator Quay's motion to take the bill out of the hands of that committee prevailed.

May Reach a Compromise.

Although defeat seems to be staring him in the face, Senator Quay will go along with the contest if it is necessary, although he may agree to abandon it if the territorial committee will promise to report the bill at the December session and urge its passage.

The other item is the Cherokee Indian bill, which has been placed in Senator Quay's hands for passage. The senator will endeavor to bring it before the senate at his earliest opportunity and urge its speedy passage. If he is successful in passing this bill in a short time and the contest over the statehood bill is compromised satisfactorily, Senator Quay may be able to leave for Pittsburgh or Beaver about the middle of the week, as it is his intention to make that trip at his earliest opportunity.

With the trip to Pittsburgh and Beaver made, Senator Quay will then complete his plans for his trip to the Maine woods for rest and recreation prior to taking charge of the fall campaign. His physicians have advised the senator to give up his Maine trip, and also to resign the state chairmanship, as they fear he cannot stand the strain of campaigning, and it would be injudicious for him to go so far from civilization as the Maine trip calls for; but he has declined emphatically to accept their advice in either case.

Reciprocity Virtually Abandoned.

It was the purpose of the Republican steering committee to make the Cuban reciprocity bill the order of business after the disposition of the Interoceanic canal bill, but the two Republican conferences have rendered it evident that there could be no reciprocity legislation this session, so the steering committee has abandoned its purpose.

Senator Penrose on Monday will report the general immigration bill, and it is understood he will make strenuous effort to have the measure considered during the

FORMER REGULAR DEFENDS THE ARMY IN FIERCE FIGHT

One Man Is Dead and Three Others Are Likely to Die.

KNIVES AND GUNS USED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Knoxville, Tenn., June 22.—An attack upon the American army in the Philippines, made at a garden party here last night, started a desperate fight which may cost four lives. One man is dead, and three others, including the traducer of the soldiers and a discharged regular, recently returned from Manila, who defended the name of the military, are probably fatally wounded.

The Dead:

JOHN KENNEDY, aged 45.

The Injured.

ALONZO BARGER, stabbed 20 times; cannot recover.

CHARLES HOBBS, badly cut about the face, neck and breast.

LINCOLN MONDAY, stabbed; jugular vein almost severed.

Monday, who served three years in the archipelago as a member of the Ninth infantry, and who is a survivor of the massacres of Company C at Balingiga, Samar, gave Barger the lie when the latter declared that "two-thirds of the American soldiers who went to the Philippines were hoodlums, and that the other third were cowards and bullies."

In the fight that followed, Hobbs and Kennedy took the part of Barger. All fought with pocket knives, until Monday, weak from the loss of blood, sank to the ground. Then one of his friends in the crowd handed him a revolver and he shot Kennedy dead. Monday then shot at Barger and Hobbs, but missed.

THREE MEN DROWNED.

Boy Clung to the Overturned Boat and Was Saved—Were Fishing in the Lake.

MILWAUKEE, WIS., June 22.—Three men were drowned today in Lake Michigan, while fishing from a boat, which capsized. A 12-year-old boy who was also in the party was saved by clinging to the boat. The drowned are:

W. F. C. Falbe, Milwaukee, aged 45 years.

Jacob Beyer, Chicago, aged 50 years.

Joseph Greel, New York, aged 50 years.

Charles Tuschel was saved. The men were fishing near the government pier, and, according to the boy's story, Beyer, in trying to move to another part of the boat, fell overboard. He was hauled back, but during the rescue the boat filled with water and capsized. The bodies of Falbe and Beyer have been recovered.

SCORE INJURED.

Trolley Car Gets Beyond Control at the Top of Hill and Crashes Into Another at Bottom.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—A score of persons were injured tonight in a collision of trolley cars at Chestnut hill, a suburb, but the majority of the victims proceeded to their homes after being treated at a hospital. The most severely injured are:

MRS. AUGUSTA SHINE, internal injuries.

MARTIN DONOHUE, motorman, head and arms injured.

FRANCIS CURRY, legs and arms and several ribs broken.

The car operated by Donohue became unmanageable at the top of a hill and crashed into another car which had stopped at the foot of the grade. Both cars were crowded with passengers, who were piled in an indiscriminate mass by the force of the impact. Most of the passengers are suffering from contusions and shock.

Sonman Miners Win.

ALTOONA, PA., June 22.—The 300 miners who since April have been on a strike at the Sonman shaft to force the operators to recognize the union have won it and will return to work at once.

MURDER ENDS CAROUSAL AT SUNDAY DANCE

Young Italian Stabbed to Death by Another in Chartiers Valley.

PERPETRATOR OF CRIME AT LIBERTY

The beautiful Chartiers Valley had another murder added to its terrible history of crime last night. A Sunday spent in dancing, drinking, gambling and a general disregard for either civil or moral laws ended in its usual manner, a murderous fight. Donato Fufels, a young Italian confectioner, lies cold in death at Bowers Hill station, on the Chartiers branch of the Panhandle railroad, while Frederick Theif is a fugitive from justice, pursued by the police of Carnegie and several constables from other towns in the Chartiers valley.

Fufels, Theif and about 15 other persons left their homes in the mining settlements of Heidelberg, Woodville and Bowers hill and journeyed out to Sumner hill, about two miles distance. A pavilion situated in a little park was then made the scene of a Sunday dance and carousal. A plentiful supply of beer and whisky was on tap, and before the afternoon had passed everyone was more or less intoxicated.

The party included six women and trouble began to appear after the men had become intoxicated. There were not enough women for each man to have a partner in the dance, and it is said that this was the cause of the trouble. Fighting took place on several occasions, but others in the party interfered and prevented any serious injury being done.

The dance was still in progress about 7:15 last night, when another fight started, this time between Fufels and Theif. But little attention was paid to their jangling and wrestling, the others being too busy in the dance. Suddenly Theif whipped out a large penknife and with quick movements slashed several times across Fufels' neck and chest.

Immediately the remainder of the party left off dancing, the music stopped and all made a rush for the assailant. He saw them coming, jumped from the platform and ran down over the hill. The pursuers did not chase him very far and do not know which direction he went after reaching the bottom of the hill, but it is supposed that he either jumped aboard a freight train on the Chartiers branch road or escaped over the hills toward the main line of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The wounded man was picked up and laid on a bench and a messenger dispatched to the Allegheny County home at Woodville, about a mile distant. Drs. Howard Clark and William Scott of the home hurried to the scene of the tragedy, and arrived just in time to see the wounded man die. The wound that caused death was a long slash across the right clevical, which severed the jugular vein. The man had died from loss of blood, as it was nearly half an hour before the doctors could get to the scene.

Chief of Police George Foster of Carnegie, Constable Streitenberg and other officers are working on the case, but up until a late hour last night had not found the murderer. The dead man is about 32 years of age and single. He resided at Heidelberg, where up until a short time ago he conducted a little candy shop. He was familiarly known throughout the mining towns of Chartiers valley as "Ice Cream," which name was given to him on account of his selling that product throughout the valley. Fred Theif is a middle-aged man, of whom but little is known in the vicinity.

League Games Today.

Pittsburgh at Chicago.
Philadelphia at Boston.
New York at Brooklyn.

Chicago, Ill., June 22.—The National Baseball league is stacked up against a new record today, and it will be many years before the contest between the Pittsburgh champions and the Chicago Recruits is equaled. Nineteen innings! And it was 19 innings of great baseball, such a game as keeps the hearts of the spectators in their throats all the time. After the game was tied by Chicago in the ninth, there were a dozen chances to break it off, men got to first, to second and at times even to third, but the hit that was to end the agony was not up the sleeves of the batters and the pitchers would go to the bench at the end of the inning feeling that one more inning of nerve tearing work was in front of them.

Philippe and Taylor were the opposing slab artists, and it would be impossible to choose between them on their work today. Fourteen hits each in 19 innings, when they were faced by the batsmen 58 times, is a record for anyone to take pride in; but Philippe can look over the score and see where errors of the men behind him—excusable errors, no doubt, but heart-breakers, nevertheless—lost the game to him, and he can go away back and weep burning tears for the chance that should have placed his name in the highest niche of baseball fame, but was lost.

Tense Even for Lookers On.

Every one of the 10,000 people who saw the game today went from the grounds tired and sore. It was as much as though they had done a hard day's work. The tension was never relaxed. As one side would be retired, and the teams were changing position, the worn-out fan would get up, stretch his legs, take a long breath and sit down again, feeling that the next 10 minutes would end the struggle. But the minutes flew by and still the game went on. It was too tense for cheers and at times brilliant plays were passed with only a sigh that seemed to shake the grandstand.

Extra inning games are not unusual in the National league, but the longest games have been played long before baseball has become the science that it is today. College men and the leaguers of the old days before the National gained its fame have battled till it seemed that darkness alone would end the struggle. In 1884, in what was then the National league, Providence and Boston fought it out to 1 to 0 in 21 innings, and two college teams in those days kept going for 24 innings. In 1882 a game between Detroit and Providence lasted 18 innings and was won by Providence. Late season, September 21, Chicago and Boston played 17 innings at Chicago, and the game ended in a victory for the Windy City team by a 1 to 0 score. The greatest recorded, in number of innings played, was between Fargo and Grand Forks teams at Devil's Lake, N. D., July 18, 1891. This game required 25 innings to decide.

It Marks an Epoch.

But with all these records to look at it is all old history in the lesser days of baseball and nothing has occurred in the present day which today's contest could be compared. It marks an epoch in baseball history, and it will be recalled as long as baseball is played and discussed, which will be as long as the United States is a nation and has a national game.

The game was startling from the start. Chicago sent Davy Jones around for the first run in the opening session on two singles and an outfield fly. Pittsburgh, however, tied the score in the second and took the lead by getting a second tally in the third.

With the score Pittsburgh, 2; Chicago, 1, the Pirates kept the lead until the last half of the ninth. Then an error by Ritchey, after one man was out, left Joe Tinker safe at first. Lowe's single put the captain on first and Tinker on second. Schaefer forced Lowe at second and while the Pirates were making an unsuccessful attempt to double Schaefer at first Tinker turned third for home. Bransfield threw to Smith to catch Joe at the plate, but the catcher dropped the ball and Tinker slid in with the score that tied up the game.

Then came the extra sessions. Both of the twirlers seemed to like the route, both performing like stake horses, and the fielders were handing out sensational support.

Philippe got as far as third in the tenth inning and Beaumont was on second when the great Hans Wagner came to bat. Taylor was equal to the occasion, however, retiring Wagner on strikes, and the next batsman on an easy infield bounder.

An error and a hit sent Tommy Leach as far as second in the eleventh, and a Pirate reached the half-way station in both the following innings. Fred Clarke got as far as third again in the fifteenth and both Leach and Ritchey reached second in the sixteenth. Clarke opened the eighteenth with a single, but was flagged at first. Wagner reached third in the eighteenth on an error and a pair of outs, but was the last of the Pirates to get even that far. In the nineteenth the visitors were retired in order.

Some Great Work Unavailing.

In the meantime the Recruits had had fewer chances to score. A pass and a steal put Davy Jones on second in the tenth; a single and a sacrifice and an out allowed Lowe to go as far as third in the twelfth, but not another one of Selee's band reached second in safety for the next six innings, the 20 men facing Phillippe in that time.

The verdict was reached in the last half of the nineteenth. Congalton opened the session with a long fly to deep center, which seemed destined for at least three bases, but despite a collision with Wagner and a fall Beaumont captured the ball and one was out.

Then Johnny Kling beat out a bounder, which he sent down to Leach. Johnny stole second and went to third on Tinker's out, and when "Bobby" Lowe sent a scorching single to left Kling ran in with the winning run, and the Recruits were victors in the longest and, in some respects, the greatest game in the history of the National league. NEW POLITICAL TURN OF THE LABOR LEAGUE

Delay Over Expected Support for Legislative Candidates Mixes Matters and Causes a Switch.

The United Labor League of Western Pennsylvania last night ostensibly switched its politics. Members of the legislative committee reported that they had failed to get an audience with the committee of 10 of the Citizens party for the purpose of securing indorsement for the two legislative candidates the league named.

Nothing was brought out to show that there had been a refusal on the part of the Citizens committee to consider the league's candidates, but a motion was passed, as the sense of the meeting, that "we condemn the action of the Citizens party in refusing to accept nominees indorsed by this body." There was strong opposition to this, but the vote finally passed it.

The candidates for legislative representatives named by the league are George J. Churchill, a member of the organization of traction employes, in the Sixth district, and W. T. Hamilton, of Allegheny, a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in the Second district.

The legislative committee of the league on last Wednesday had an interview with Thomas S. Bigelow. William Boate, member of the committee and chairman of the league, reported that Mr. Bigelow had considered the matter with favor, but with the understanding that he spoke only as an individual.

On the following day, it was reported to the league, a sub-committee of the legislative committee, including Chairman William Boate, George J. Churchill and T. J. Donohue of the traction employes, and William J. Burke, of the Order of Railway Conductors, met the Democratic committee of ten and were assured that any action taken by the Citizens' committee of 10 would be satisfactory. Then followed the effort to meet the Citizens' committee, which is reported to have failed.

The league directed its legislative committee, of which J. J. Kane of the plumbers, is chairman, to attend the meeting of councils today, in the interest of an ordinance which provides for the current rate of wages of all crafts on all city work. This committee was also instructed to watch the action of councils on other measures which the league is interested and to do this at subsequent meetings of councils.

WHY GUTHRIE WILL NOT TAKE SECOND PLACE

Would Not Be Acting Honorably Toward Some Others.

FAGAN TALKS HOPEFULLY

He Still Thinks Mr. Guthrie Will Have a Show at Erie—Most of the Signs, However, Point to Nomination of Pattison.

George W. Guthrie, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, will leave for Erie, the convention city, today. He will be accompanied by the 13 delegates, as many of the alternates as choose to go, and about 50 prominent Democrats of Allegheny county who are committed to his support. The party will travel in two special cars, to be attached to the regular train which leaves at 9:25 a. m., from the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad station. The Guthrie headquarters will be at the Reed house in Erie.

Allegheny county Democrats have the best wishes for Mr. Guthrie's success, although many of them consider it a foregone conclusion that Robert E. Pattison, who, as usual, is a candidate, will carry off the nomination. A sentiment in favor of Pattison seems to be gathering over the state, especially in the country districts, and it is confidently predicted by the few Pattison men in this county that the former governor will be nominated at Erie on the first ballot.

Mr. Guthrie's Decisive Answer.

A powerful influence is at work trying to induce Mr. Guthrie to accept second place on the ticket. He was asked yesterday if he would consent to run for lieutenant governor. He replied that he would not, under any circumstances.

"That's final," he remarked emphatically.

Mr. Guthrie has gone through the campaign so far without making any public utterances concerning his chances for the nomination, and even yesterday he refused to be quoted. His friends, however, know why he will not run for lieutenant governor, and they are rather proud of the reasons, which, they say, actuate him in making this refusal.

While some of them would like to see him run in second place, if he cannot get his name at the top of the Democratic column, the majority approve of his reasons. They know, too, that his mind is set, whether they approve or not.

One who knows gave the following as the ground on which Mr. Guthrie stands in declining positively to make the race for the lieutenant governorship:

Will Not Be Unfair.

"When Mr. Guthrie announced himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, he received practically the indorsement of the Allegheny county Democracy. There might have been, and in fact there were, men who would have liked to try for the lieutenant governorship, but realizing that by no possibility could two men from the same end of the state head the Democratic ticket, they withdrew, and nothing was said of their candidacy. Had Mr. Guthrie, however, announced himself for second place he would probably have had opposition.

"Would it be honorable, the question is asked, for him now to accept the nomination for second place, when by aspiring to the gubernatorial nomination he has probably prevented other Democrats of Allegheny county from making a perhaps successful attempt to be named for the lower office?

"Mr. Guthrie, it is said, values the opinion of his fellow men, but more especially he treasures his self-respect, and he could not retain either, he believes, if he were now to give way to the beckoning nomination for the second place. It is admitted that he considers it the duty of a good Democrat to sacrifice his own personal feelings and interests for the good of the party, but as he considers that principle and honor are involved in the present juncture, he prefers to make a fight for the gubernatorial nomination only."

Mr. Fagan Is Still Hopeful.

Charles A. Fagan will make the speech nominating Mr. Guthrie in the convention. Mr. Fagan was asked yesterday if the talk which makes Pattison the favorite contestant, had made any change in the plans of the Guthrie adherents.

"No, indeed," replied Mr. Fagan. "I consider that Mr. Guthrie has a most excellent chance for the nomination for governor. He is the only Democrat in this part of the state who has emerged triumphant from so hard-fought a victory as the recent municipal campaign in this city. He has fought for years for ballot reform, and is most prominently identified in Pennsylvania with that cause. I think that when we get to Erie the delegates will soon realize that Mr. Guthrie is the most available man to place at the head of the ticket."

Mr. Fagan was asked if John E. Larkin represented Mr. Guthrie's interests at the conference being held in Cambridge Springs.

"Not as I understand it," he said. "When I asked Mr. Larkin, two weeks ago, whether he was going to the convention, he said that he was worn out, and that he would probably go to Cambridge Springs a few days before the convention, and go to Erie from there. And two weeks ago, you remember, there was no talk of this conference. In fact, I don't believe there was a conference held with a view to settling on a candidate for the convention to accept.

"I think it would be a most unwise thing for any Democrats to attempt, for if the delegates at Erie got the idea that any set of men were trying to force a candidate on the convention there would be an upheaval. I understand that this meeting at Cambridge Springs is between friends of James Kerr, who are discussing his candidacy."

Sheraden Victim Once More at Work

Bearing many scars of a painful experience in that awful Sheraden catastrophe, a former fire department horse has just returned to the service of the city after almost two months' care in the horse hospital, and been placed at No. 5 police station for use in the patrol wagon.

At the time of the accident the animal was with No. 24 engine company and was tied with his mate near the tank of naphtha which caused the second explosion. When the explosion occurred both horses were engulfed in flame but though suffering intense pain they remained at their post. A spot of one ear is gone as a reminder of the disaster. The mate is still in the hospital.

the legislature than any other man who can be named to head the ticket. Even if he cannot be elected to succeed Stone, there are Democrats that believe he will give the minority party enough members of the next legislature to cause another senatorial deadlock.

The Democrats of the Erie city district are confident that Pattison's nomination will insure them a victory here this fall. Crawford county Democrats are expecting to elect a senator, three members of the house and a congressman if the ex-governor is made the candidate. All over the state, in close counties, the Democrats have this idea of Pattison's ability to win and that is why they are shouting for him. They see a possibility of getting something at home, even if they do lose in the state.

The selection of quarters at the Reed house is a rather strong indication that Guffey and Pattison are not far apart, even when it comes to sleeping. There are four connecting rooms on the second floor of the hotel and they will be occupied by Guffey, Pattison and Hall. Kerr and Guthrie will be located on the floor above.

From a reliable source it is learned that Robert E. Wright of Allentown will be permanent chairman of the convention. Mr. Wright resigned as chairman of the state committee when Bryan was nominated in 1896. If he presides over this convention it will be a recognition of the gold element and the first step toward the cementing of the two wings of the party.

Warren Worth Bailey of Johnstown is the first candidate for governor to appear on the field. He came in tonight. The delegates from Cambria are instructed for him. He is more particular about the platform, however, and will devote himself to an attempt to get some of his tax ideas in the declaration of principles.

Most of the leaders of all factions, as well as all of the active and dark-horse candidates for governor will be in Erie by tomorrow night. Pattison will arrive in the morning, and Guthrie will reach here early in the afternoon. The business end of the convention will reach town when the train bearing the "matchless" leader from Pittsburgh pulls into Erie. Things will begin to move with gusher-like activity then, and a general show-down of strength will have to be made.

It is said that about 250 rooters will be sent over here from McKean county. Lewis Emery, Jr., will pay the freight. He has announced that he intends to help Pattison this fall. Pattison went to his rescue two years ago this fall, when Joseph Sibley decided that he would secure a Republican seat in congress. Crawford county will send 800 men here to shout for Pattison.

Until the real slate-makers arrive there will be nothing definite about the lieutenant governorship, or the candidate for secretary of internal affairs. It is said Guthrie can have second place without a struggle.

M'QUISTION'S VICTORY

His Majority for Democratic Judicial Nomination Climbing—Contest in Dauphin.

BUTLER, PA., June 22.—(Special.)—There is no change in the returns on the Democratic judgeship contest of Saturday, except that McQuistion's majority is steadily growing and may reach 1,200. Returns from the country districts are slow in coming in. C. M. Heineman has been nominated for congress, William Kennedy for sheriff and L. M. Roth for treasurer without opposition. The rest of the ticket is still in doubt. Joseph Elliott and George F. Bastley are in the lead for county commissioners and Stephen Cummings and John Balfour for assembly. It is probable that there will be no change in their positions.

HARRISBURG, PA., June 22.—(Special.)—Complete returns of last night's Democratic primaries in Dauphin county indicate a decisive victory for the adherents of ex-Mayor Fritchey over the cohorts of ex-Congressman Meyers. The Fritcheyites claim 35 of the 37 members of the county committee from 30 districts and more than enough from the country districts to give them a majority. They also claim 45 of the 69 delegates to tomorrow's convention. The delegates will support Vance C. McCormick for governor until they see no chance of his nomination; then they will vote for ex-Congressman James Kerr of Clearfield.

SCHUYLKILL FOR KERR.

Democratic Leaders Will Confer Today to Advise Delegates.

POTTSVILLE, PA., June 22.—(Special.)—Democratic leaders of Schuylkill county will hold a conference tomorrow to advise a course of action for the local delegates to the state convention.

The names of Kerr, McCormick, Gordon, Guthrie and Pattison have been under consideration for the past two weeks, and Kerr seems decidedly the favorite. The only delegate from Schuylkill county positively committed to Pattison is James Fadden of Cass, who was assistant state librarian under the ex-governor. Fadden is one of the delegates elected last year, contrary to the state rules, and his seat is to be contested.

WILL PROBABLY BE A CASE OF MURDER

Frank McCauley, Stabbed by Italians, Thought to Be Dying Last Night and Made Statement.

Frank McCauley, formerly a police officer in the West End district, who was stabbed by an Italian late Saturday night in Washington avenue, Allentown, Thirty-first ward, is likely to die.

Late last night his condition was so bad that Magistrate David J. McCarey and Police Inspector William McShane, went to the South Side hospital to take what it is believed will prove to be his dying statement of the fracas. He was very weak, having already had several hemorrhages. He gave a full account of the occurrence and a description of the man who assaulted him. After making the statement he became weak and fainted.

Yesterday Inspector McShane placed five Italians under arrest. One of them, "Mike" Maree of No. 13 Eureka street, was identified as the man who stabbed McCauley.

Several witnesses to the fray gave Inspector McShane an account of the trouble. The fight occurred in front of Diffenbacher's saloon. McCauley is said to have been the aggressor. He commenced bantering the Italians. They retorted, and Maree drew a knife.

McCauley started to run, and Maree followed him. When they reached the other side of the street Maree overtook McCauley and plunged the knife twice in his back. One of the thrusts penetrated a lung. Several witnesses rushed to the scene and the Italian ran. Maree fell and cut himself across the nose with his own knife. When Maree was arrested the knife, an ugly pruning hook affair, was found on him. He disclaimed all knowledge of the affair.

TROOPS CALLED TO OVERAWE THE TORONTO CROWDS

First Attempt to Run Cars During Strike Encounters Violence.

SEVERAL SERIOUS RIOTS

Bombard Crews With Stones, Sticks, Eggs and Stale Vegetables—Many Roughly Used and Windows Smashed—Effort Dropped.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Toronto, Ont., June 22.—The first attempt made by the Toronto street railway to run cars with men hired to take the places of the striking motormen and conductors was met with violence. Only one effort was made to reopen the traffic, and the temper shown by the strikers and their sympathizers convinced the officials that it would be impossible to run cars without strong protection. It was therefore decided to appeal to the authorities for troops and to suspend operations until their arrival tomorrow morning.

Stones, sticks, eggs and stale vegetables were the weapons used by the strike sympathizers. Several imported men were roughly handled, and Motorman Johnson, an old employe of the company, came near losing his life. The worst riots occurred at the corner of Scollard and Yonge, and Bloor and Yonge streets, in proximity to the Yorkville barns. Very few arrests were made.

Every Window in Car Broken.

Crowds had gathered about the entrances. The appearance of a car at the Yonge street barn was the signal for hooting and yelling. The car was run out to the main track and the conductor gave the motorman the signal to go ahead. The crowd called upon the crew to desert the car. Their refusal to do so was followed by a shower of stones and bricks. Every window in the car was smashed and the crew left their posts and ran into the barn.

Similar scenes occurred at the other barns. An attempt was made to run a car from the Yorkville barns around the belt line. A big stone thrown against the window dashed the glass into Motorman Johnson's face, badly lacerating it, and he was struck by a number of stones. Johnson persevered, however, and made the circuit of the line.

Five Cars Shattered.

The attempt to run out five cars at the King street East barns at 8 o'clock was attended by scenes of the greatest disorder and violence, several persons being injured by flying missiles, including W. H. Moore, private secretary to Mr. Mackenzie, president of the road, who was struck in the face by a brick. Three arrests were made. All five cars were badly shattered in less than five minutes after they made their appearance. Motorman Quigley was struck on the head by a stone and badly injured.

At the Dundas street barns another crowd intercepted the cars and they were turned back. The company then decided to abandon the effort today.

Meanwhile the civil authorities were communicated with and it was decided to call out the militia. Seven hundred and fifty mounted men from the Niagara camp, consisting of 350 of the governor general's body guard, 200 mounted rifles and 250 men of the First and Second dragoons, left Niagara with their horses in three special trains at 10 o'clock tonight and will arrive at daylight.

TWO MURDERERS' LAST SUNDAY ON EARTH

Henry Taylor and Charles Davis Were Busy Yesterday Preparing to Die This Week.

Absorbed in reading religious literature of the faith they have embraced Henry Taylor and Charles Davis, the colored murderers, spent their last Sunday on earth in the Allegheny county jail. No one was permitted to see them during the day. Warden Edward Lewis went to their cells yesterday afternoon and both assured him that they had prepared for the end and were waiting to be taken from their cells to the gallows.

These murderers took their last exercise on Saturday. They walked up and down the range for one hour. Then they bade each other farewell. They will remain in their cells until taken to the gallows. No one will be permitted to see them except the minister, who attends them, and the deputies from the sheriff's office. This morning they will be given writing material, and be allowed to send farewell messages to their relatives.

Tomorrow morning Taylor will be given a new suit of black clothes in which he will attire himself for the execution. Thursday morning a suit will be given to Davis for the same purpose. These clothes were bought by Sheriff William McKinley Saturday, and are in possession of Warden Lewis.

The men paced up and down in their cells some yesterday afternoon. Davis told Warden Lewis he would miss his accustomed exercise. Davis has expressed a desire to be buried by the side of his wife, whom he so atrociously murdered, and this desire will be carried out by his wife's relatives. Taylor's remains will be taken to his home in Virginia, and interred with those of his brothers and sisters.

Slain With Beer Bottle.

COLUMBUS, O., June 22.—In a fight on the street early this morning Ralph Blizzard, aged 17, struck Allen Tarkee, aged 25, on the head with a beer bottle and fractured his skull. Tarkee died tonight and Blizzard is in prison charged with murder.

Family of Rats Need Gold Cure.

YORK, PA., June 22.—(Special.)—Under the floor of a beer vault in the basement restaurant of the Motter house, this city, a family of six rats have made their abode and they have become the most depraved inebriates, conducting themselves in much the same manner as human beings who allow their appetites for intoxicants to get the better of them. The rats drink the waste beer from a drain in the vault until they become so drunk that they permit themselves to be kicked around like old shoes, and to be picked up by the tails. When they recover sufficiently they stagger to their nest under the floor, and when emerging later, they drink copiously of water and then renew their jags. Though food is placed within their reach they rarely touch it.

QUAY FORCED TO KEEP UP FIGHT FOR STATEHOOD

week, or, at least, before the final adjournment of congress.

No senator now places the day of adjournment beyond the Fourth. The conference between the two houses on the inter-oceanic canal bill has been arranged and it is expected that an agreement will be reached during the present week.

Senators generally do not count on an extra session immediately, in case a reciprocity treaty should be sent in, but many of them are inclined to believe that if the treaty is completed the senate will be called together in extraordinary session for its consideration after the November elections, in order to get the treaty out of the way, if possible before the beginning of the regular session in December.

Philippine Oratory in House.

The opinion of the house leaders is that this coming week will be the last full week of the present session of congress. The Philippine civil government bill will hold the boards in the house, except for such time as is occupied in disposing of conference reports, until Thursday and possibly Friday. Members generally are using it as a vehicle for political speeches to be circulated in the coming campaign, and its passage by a solid Republican vote is assured.

All of the Democratic representatives from Pennsylvania in the house have departed for Erie, where they will assist their confreres in nominating the ticket that is to be defeated in November. The impression among the three members of the delegation is that ex-Governor Pattison will be the nominee for governor and that he will be defeated. Some of them will aid all in their power toward his nomination and election, but others will secretly aid in encompassing his defeat. The latter class are inclined to regard him as an "old man of the sea," and believe that the party will be better off if he is given an overwhelming defeat in November.

HAD TO DIE WITHOUT SEEING HER MOTHER

Pathetic Death of Gertrude Grogan at the Municipal Hospital—Insane Women in Quarantined House.

Pleading pitifully to see her mother, Gertrude Grogan, 7 years old, died at the Municipal hospital yesterday from smallpox. Her death was not unexpected. The girl was taken from her home at No. 2226 Tustin street on June 12.

On Friday she asked of Dr. B. A. Booth permission to see her mother. The physician was compelled to refuse. She pleaded so pitifully to him that he went to see the mother. Mrs. Grogan was informed that she could see her daughter, but that she would have to remain at the hospital until the child recovered.

Mrs. Grogan had her household duties to attend to and several other children to care for. The father decided he could be better spared from home and accompanied the physician to the Municipal hospital. He has been with his daughter since that time. While she was gasping for her last breath yesterday she begged of her father to see her mother.

Five more cases of smallpox were sent to the Municipal hospital yesterday. Thomas Evans of Berthand street, who moved when he was taken ill to a house in Center avenue, developed the disease yesterday and was taken to the hospital.

Mrs. Mary Ridge of No. 2002 Ridge street and her daughter, Elizabeth Newman, 8 years old, and Leroy Greenlee, 15 months old, whose mother lives there, were removed to the hospital during the afternoon. The mother of the Greenlee child is immune and was taken to the hospital to care for the baby. The Newman child has been ill with the disease for three weeks and is rapidly recovering.

The other patient was Mrs. Sarah Ellis, colored, of No. 2920 Ridge street. All these patients are in the Thirteenth ward, where most of the smallpox cases have been located.

The policeman on duty at a quarantined house, No. 3440 Grant boulevard, was appealed to yesterday by a young man who was inside to subdue his sister, Lizzie Getz, aged 26, who is subject to spells of dementia and who was destroying every thing in sight at the time.

Owing to the quarantine regulations the policeman was unable to enter the house and was compelled to refuse $25 the young man offered to have the destruction stopped. Meanwhile the furniture was broken and everything movable inside the house turned topsy-turvy. Word was sent to City Physician E. A. Booth, who went to the house and succeeded in calming the woman.

This morning the smallpox physicians will start out on their work again and continue to vaccinate persons. There were about 50 persons vaccinated at the bureau of health yesterday.

RETURNING TO WORK.

Miners at Winifred in Kanawha Field Vote to End Strike—Report of Norfolk & Western.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHARLESTON, W. VA., June 22.—Eighty-nine men at Winifred, one of the largest mines in the Kanawha field, held a meeting today, and voted on the question of returning to work. It resulted in but one negative vote. They have been out but one week.

ROANOKE, VA., June 22.—An official statement given tonight by the general officers of the Norfolk & Western Railroad Company says the loading of coal yesterday in the Pocahontas district was 300 cars. This is a falling off of about 50 cars as compared with the output on the previous day, but is in excess of what had been expected owing to the fact that yesterday was the monthly pay day for the miners, and most of the operations work only half a day on Saturday. There was a falling off in the output of the Clinch valley and Thacker fields on Saturday.

$800,000,000 MIGHT BE SAVED BY THE BUG MAN

Dr. W. J. Holland Says That Insect Ravages Cost This Much Each Year.

ENTOMOLOGISTS' MISSION

A Thousand Expected to Attend Convention of American Association of Applied Science—Affiliated Societies Meet This Week.

The Rev. Dr. W. J. Holland said last night that the coming annual convention of the American Association of Applied Science, which opens in Pittsburgh this week, promises to be the greatest in the history of the association, and the greatest gathering of the kind that Pittsburgh every saw. In several of the affiliated organizations there will be represented many men from different departments and bureaus of the United States government.

Speaking of the true importance of these government representatives and the light estimate that is put upon them by many, he said:

"As an instance, people affect to ridicule the entomologist, the bug man, they call him, but it is a fact that if the science of the entomologist could be made perfect $800,000,000 annually of the grain, cereal, vegetable and other valuable production of the country could be saved.

Deadly Work of Insects.

"It is this that the entomological branch of the general organization seeks to do. It may amaze some people that so much of our agricultural production is lost annually by the ravages of insects, but it is true. These insects prey on practically everything that grows and play havoc with orange groves, valuable fruit orchards, tobacco fields and grain production. Our industrial system frequently stands almost still because the insect preying on our wheat is doing its deadly work.

"The United States government will have about 20 entomologists at our meeting. There is a department devoted to this science in nearly every state and all will be represented, besides the leading colleges. The opening session of this society will be held at Carnegie institute next Saturday."

Dr. Holland estimated that 1,000 or more scientists will be at the general meeting and the meetings of the affiliated societies. The meetings will be held in the several assembly rooms of Carnegie institute, in Phipps' conservatory, in the Bellefield Presbyterian church, the First United Presbyterian church and other places.

Vanguard Already Here.

The vanguard of the scientists arrived here yesterday. Dr. E. L. Mark, professor of geology at Harvard university, is at the Hotel Schenley. Several of the geologists, who will start on their itinerary to witness the interesting geological conditions in the Pittsburgh district, arrived last night at the Monongahela house, where they will have their headquarters.

The program for the general meeting is not yet arranged. On Saturday at noon there will be a council at the Hotel Schenley which will settle on all the details. Dr. Holland is now perhaps the busiest man in Pittsburgh. He has volumes of proofs from the printers on matters in which he is most interested.

On Friday and Saturday the American Microscopical society will hold its sessions and investigations at Phipps' conservatory. About 50 members of this society will be present. On Saturday the Society for the Promotion of Agricultural Development will hold its first session in one of the halls of Carnegie institute. At this there will be present many men who are in charge of the colleges fostered by government grant, besides the scientists of this branch in many other colleges and those in charge of experimental stations in every state of the union.

Geologists on a Prospecting Trip.

The geologists will open their sessions next Monday at the Oakland Methodist Episcopal church. In anticipation of this they will spend all this week in a trip about the Pittsburgh district to look over the many things of interest to their science. There will be 25 in the party which will make the trip about Pittsburgh, the itinerary being arranged and conducted by Prof. I. C. White of Morgantown, W. Va., geologist of that state. The party will gather here today and leave on the trip of investigation tomorrow. The first point to be visited will be Garvers Ferry, 27 miles up the Allegheny river. There an examination will be made of the upper and lower Mahoning sandstones, the Mahoning coal and a portion of the Conemaugh formation.

On Wednesday the objective point of the trip will be New Brighton, where the entire formation of this district is favorably shown. This trip will include the Ohio and Beaver valleys. On Thursday the party will investigate the upper half of the Conemaugh formation and the Pittsburgh seam of coal. On the same day the near oil fields will be visited.

On Friday there will be a boat ride up the Monogahela river. The Connellsville coke field will be looked over. The party will drive up the Cheat river canyon, returning from Morgantown, W. Va., Monday, in time for the opening session of the Geological society and the general meeting of the American Association of Applied Science.

HOSPITAL WAS THREATENED.

Fire in McKeesport Last Night Caused Considerable Excitement.

Fire of unknown origin broke out about 10 o'clock last night in a house in Fifth avenue, McKeesport, opposite the McKeesport hospital.

The house was occupied by the family of Mrs. Mary Ainsley, who had gone to Richmond cemetery, during the evening. It was completely destroyed, as also was the house of Hiram Hill, next door. The residence of Peter Riley was also badly burned. The loss, all told, will reach $2,000, partially insured.

THE KING'S HEALTH IN PROPER SHAPE

WELL ENOUGH TO ATTEND CHURCH AND TAKE A DRIVE.

Anxieties of Coronation Guests Relieved. American Flags in Evidence in Street Decorations—Earl Roberts and Von Waldersee.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

LONDON, June 22.—The reappearance today of brilliant sunshine, after weeks of rain and murky weather, gave to the first day of coronation week an air of unusual gaiety and gladdened the hearts of thousands of British subjects from all parts of the empire.

The announcement that King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the court would return to London from Windsor tomorrow at noon increased the universal anticipations for that day and served to quiet to some extent the flood of extraordinary rumors concerning the king's physical condition, varied in some quarters by weird tales of plots to assassinate his majesty and other actions, all of which have been promptly denied by the officials most intimately connected with the king.

King Edward's health was authoritatively declared, at Windsor castle today to be good, and this morning he attended divine services, accompanied by other members of the royal family. This evening he enjoyed a drive through the royal gardens of Windsor castle in a closed carriage.

The court will arrive at Buckingham palace tomorrow before luncheon time.

At the command of the king many thousand persons were admitted to the east terrace of Windsor castle this afternoon for the Sunday band performance. The terrace was crowded. The king and queen listened to the music from the windows of their private apartments. King Edward's appearance does not justify the sensational rumors of his illness.

The congested conditions of the streets of London furnished an omen of the travel through these streets the latter days of this week. The barriers across the streets which intersect those through which the coronation processions will pass and which have now been completed, are proving an impediment to ordinary traffic. Today it was impossible to proceed faster than at a snail's pace through the thoroughfares between Hyde park and the Mansion house.

The omnibus companies have increased previous fares two and three times, and further increases in these rates are probable. The obtaining of a seat on an omnibus, however, was today more a question of physical than financial ability.

Kensington gardens and the beautiful groves about the Crystal and Alexandra palaces are filled with colonial and native troops clad in scarlet, white, khaki and blue uniforms.

The throngs in the streets at night find much to engage the eye. The fronts of innumerable buildings are hung with lighted decorations, and the Venetian masts are covered with garlands and connected by strands of roses. The streets are filled with mile after mile of many-colored lights, and the various stations of the royal coronation processions are marked with arches representing Great Britain's colonies. American flags were in evidence at a great number of windows. Some hotels are flying both American and British flags from their staffs in honor of the many American visitors domiciled within.

Count von Waldersee, one of the German representatives to the coronation; the duke and duchess of Aosta, from Italy, and many other distinguished representatives of foreign royal personages, arrived in London today. Count von Waldersee and the German officers with him were entertained at dinner tonight by Field Marshal Lord Ro

McGonigle succeeded in eluding the officers. The couple are full cousins. The affair has created a stir here socially, as both are well known.

TARDY CONFESSION PLACES MAN IN JAIL

Ephriam Milligan of Irwin Accused of Poisoning His Wife for Small Insurance.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
IRWIN, PA., June 22.—Ephriam Milligan is in jail here and if what Mrs. Rose Roselle tells is true he will have to face the charge of poisoning his wife for $180 insurance money. His two grown stepsons insist on a thorough investigation.

Milligan lives on the South Side. His wife died last April. Mrs. Roselle says she was present the night Mrs. Milligan died and says the husband forced his wife, who was slightly ill, to take a dose of something that made her unconscious. Turning to Mrs. Roselle, he pointed a revolver at her head and said that he would kill her if she ever told what she saw.

The woman adds that Milligan promised her half of the insurance money, but did not keep his promise. Milligan told the officers that it was morphine he gave his wife.

TEN MILLIONS TO SPEND.

Northern Coal and Coke Company Will Develop Big Tract of Land in Kentucky.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
SHARON, PA., June 22.—Ten million dollars will be spent by the Northern Coal & Coke Company in the development of its coal property in Kentucky. The company has purchased 500,000 acres underlaid with coal in that state for about $3,000,000. A railroad will be built to the land, 150 miles long, and a mammoth coking plant will be erected. About 100,000 acres of the land contains coking coal, while the balance is to be used for fuel.

Among those identified with the company are Peter L. Kimberly, Frank H. Buhl of Sharon, J. C. Mayo of White House, Ky.; R. M. Dreyfus and George Howell of Chicago, David M. Adams, the ore king of Duluth and John E. Jones, also of Duluth.

Senator Wellington Packing His Baggage to Hie Himself to Republican Camp.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
CUMBERLAND, MD., June 22.—The report that ex-Governor Lowndes and Senator Wellington had again become political friends caused much interest here at the home of both, but Mr. Lowndes has entered an emphatic denial. Judge David W. Sloan, who was a prominent figure in the old Lowndes-Wellington combination, despite the estrangement of the two men, has remained a warm personal friend of both and is frequently seen with one or the other. This has given rise to a rumor that he has been acting as a mediator.

It is conceded by friends of Wellington that he is about to return bag and baggage to the Republican party.

Dog Returns Without Him.

WAYNESBURG, PA., June 22.—(Special.)—The body of Atkinson C. Watson, aged 21, son of John Watson of Castile, Greene county, was found in a woods near his home last evening with a bullet wound in his head. He had gone hunting Saturday morning and his dog returned to the house without him. The coroner's jury decided it was suicide, though Watson's friends believe his death was due to accident or murder, as no powder marks were found upon his face.

Baccalaureate Sermon Preached by Dr. James D. Moffat, President.

THE CITY IS CROWDED

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
WASHINGTON, PA., June 22.—The exercises in connection with the 101st commencement of Washington and Jefferson college were inaugurated today with the baccalaureate sermon, preached in the college gymnasium this morning by the Rev. James D. Moffat, D. D., president of the college. The gymnasium was crowded, with standing room at a premium. Dr. Moffat took for his text, John xiii:17, "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." He taught the lesson of humility, the doing of the necessary things of life, be they ever so menial, and gave as an example the washing of the feet of His disciples by Jesus. "Principles may gather a number of small things together and their aggregate force may be formidable," he said. "It makes a mighty difference whether a human life is made up of a lot of small things without connection or has some great principle running through it and binding all words and acts together in an organization. The principle of selfishness drives the human race asunder and reduces life to a little unit at war with other little units; the principle of service binds the whole race together and makes each unit an organ in the organic whole co-operating with all other for the common good."

In the gymnasium tonight the Rev. G. M. Young, D. D., pastor of the Second Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, preached the annual sermon to the college Y. M. C. A.

The exercises will be continued tomorrow, when the annual class day exercises, the junior oratorical contest, President Moffat's reception to the graduating class and the annual senior banquet will be held. Tuesday will be alumni day, when alumni reunions will be held and final preparations for the centennial next fall will be gone over and completed. On Wednesday the commencement exercises proper will be held, followed by the annual senior promenade in the event, the swell society affair of the year in Washington.

Washington is crowded with alumni and friends of the graduates and the local hotels are unable to accommodate them. It is expected that many more will be in tomorrow.

The graduating class this year is one of the largest in the history of the college and especial importance is attached to the commencement exercises this year on account of it being centennial year.

SIGNAL PROOF OF CONFIDENCE IN ROOSEVELT

Disposition of House to Accept Senate Canal Change Affords it.

MAY IMPOSE TIME LIMIT

The President's Reputation as a Man of Strenuous Action Convinces Congress That the Work Will Not Lag—Great Responsibility.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., June 22.—That congress, after all, has the greatest confidence that President Roosevelt, as a man of action, can be trusted to carry out promptly a great enterprise, is shown by the disposition of the house to accept the senate canal bill, with little, if any, material change.

It was said today that the house might insist on inserting one of the amendments offered by Senator Mallory of Florida, putting a time limit on the president in the matter of his investigation of the alleged difficulties, legal and diplomatic, which surround the Panama offer and are involved in accepting the Panama route. The house conferees, however, will not prolong the struggle in conference in order to get this amendment accepted, believing that the president will take up the matter promptly and reach an early decision.

Senator Mallory offered three amendments, making a time limit of six, 12 and 18 months. All of these were defeated by about the same majority by which the Spooner substitute was afterward adopted by the senate. When the house conferees finally yield to the senate bill an effort will be made to insert the Mallory amendment, limiting the time to one year. If Senators Morgan, Hanna and Kittredge oppose this in conference it is probable that Representative Hepburn and the house conferees will withdraw it.

Not only is President Roosevelt entrusted with tremendous power and responsibility in the matter of selection of route, but also in the appointment of a commission to carry out the great enterprise. Seven members are provided for and their salaries and expenses will aggregate not less than $150,000 annually. To conduct such a great work without a suspicion of scandal in the stress of party politics, will be a gigantic undertaking, and it is a high compliment which congress pays to the character of President Roosevelt, in placing in his hands, without limitation or reservation, the selection of the most important commission created by congress since its foundation.

BUY YANKEE GOODS WITH VERY WRY FACE

Britons So Very Loyal to Their Own That They Must Have Strong Inducements to Import.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.—Frederick W. Emery, chief of the bureau of foreign commerce, today made public an extract from "Commercial Relations For 1901," showing the state of our trade relations with Great Britain.

"Most noticeable, perhaps, of all prevailing trade conditions in England," says Consul S. C. McFarland of Nottingham, "is the nervous antagonism against foreign goods which has sprung up among the British people. There has long been prejudice against German products, but the recent enormous growth of American trade in all branches has forced itself upon the attention of British newspapers, manufacturers and the public generally. The British people are nothing, if not loyal, and they inherit the belief that a British trademark is a guarantee of quality, for which they have some reason. There is a distinct inclination to purchase American or German wares unless, by reason of novelty of design or economy, the latter appeal irresistibly.

"Many lines of goods are now sold without comment, which one or two years ago were advertised as of American make or 'American style.' The Diamond Match Company parades its goods under the old English name of Bryant & May; the American Tobacco Company calls itself the English Tobacco Company, and advertises its goods as made in England by British workmen; the proprietary medicines which were first introduced as American discoveries now blot from their advertisements everything except method which might identify them as importations from the United States.

"But despite all prejudice, and solely because of merit and cheapness, American trade in every line continues to develop. That it might double or quadruple at a bound if our exporters would only study and conform to the peculiarities of Great Britain, still goes without repeating."

FILIPINOS WAKING UP.

Prospects of Good Government Johs May Induce Thousands to Study the English Language.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 22.—W. Leon Pepperman, member of the Philippine civil service commission, is in the city, having just arrived on leave of absence from Manila. Mr. Pepperman today said.

"The scope of the commission has been extended gradually until it now covers 6,000 positions ranging in salary from $15 a month to $7,500 a year."

Mr. Pepperman says the immediate reward to successful applicants has caused a change in the old classical system of education under the Spanish regime to one of more modern character, based largely on practical business lines. So great is the interest of the Filipinos in acquiring a knowledge of English that 10,000 adults are going to night school in Manila.

Before the American occupation typewriters were almost unknown in the Philippines; but now, at every examination held by the commission, applicants are qualifying in typewriting and stenography. Of the 6,000 positions mentioned 4,000 are held by natives, the remainder by Americans. The policy of the commission, Mr. Pepperman says, has been to replace the Americans by Filipinos as rapidly as possible.

"Under Spanish rule," he continued, women were unheard of in the government service; but just before I left Manila three Filipino young women had passed successful examinations and had been given good positions. The Filipino makes an excellent clerk. Shortly before coming to America I made a tour of the principal provinces to conduct examinations. It was surprising how much good material was discovered, considering the fact that the education of the islands is centered in Manila. Enough competent men were found to fill all the provincial positions."

BIG HAUL WAS MADE BY THE POLICE SATURDAY

At the Sunday Morning Hearings 170 Cases Were Heard—Fate of Principal Offenders.

There were 170 cases disposed of at the several police court hearings yesterday morning. Magistrate Bernard McKenna established another record at Central station when he handled 108 cases in 105 minutes. None of the cases were at all hard to decide and only one was held over, a prisoner said to be wanted for murder in Montgomery, W. Va. He is W. M. Miller, a colored man, arrested by Officer Clarence White on Saturday night in a stable on Ann street. A man who said he knew of the murder informed on Miller.

John Marshall, a colored waiter at McCarthy's restaurant, arrested for theft, who is said to have stolen 1,000 napkins and silverware, to say nothing of soft shell crabs and other delicacies for a favorite cat, was sent up for 90 days. Peter Rock, for flourishing a revolver at No. 429 Water street and demanding the return of some money he gave a woman, was sent up for 30 days. Louis Kifer, arrested at No. 425 Water street, paid $10 and costs for sitting down on one of the women there and sticking pins into other women who went to her rescue.

Sam Ringgold and Edward Maxwell were chased off a merry-go-round on Soho street and then threw stones at Officer William Adams. They were fined $10 and costs each.

John Kerns hit a man with a baseball bat in Logan street and the man yelled "Murder!" Kerns paid $5 and costs.

Joseph Holmes, Randal Johnston and his brother Jim were arrested by Officer Moses Tyler at 2 a. m. in Soho street. He said they beat women who refuse to supply them with money. They were fined $10 and costs each.

William Jefferson went up for 30 days for cutting William Harris in the ear with a razor in Webster avenue.

Magistrate David J. McGarey found 20 cases on his docket at No. 7 police station. Harry Ross, who gave his residence as Cleveland, was fined $10 and costs. He was found loafing about the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston yards and got into a fight with some boys in which stones were freely used.

Harry Schreriain, his wife Dora and his sister-in-law, Marie Ault, of No. 1922 Carson street, were fined $5 and costs each for a fight in which they engaged in a street car.

Michael Johan of No. 48 Petrel street, Allegheny, was one of the 19 prisoners given hearings by Magistrate Henry Hunneshagen. He amused himself Saturday night by throwing beer bottles through the windows of houses in Pentecost row and was fined $5 and costs. Thomas O'Neal of West End avenue, for beating and abusing an old man, was retired to the workhouse for 60 days.

Frank Shamanski was held for court by Magistrate J. V. McMasters at No. 2 station on a charge of larceny. Saturday night he broke open and robbed two contribution boxes in Penn avenue saloons.

WIDOW M'CLOY SPOKE.

Crowd at Carnegie Listened to a Wierd Harangue from Pittsburgh Woman Who Has Dreams.

Mrs. Sarah E. McCloy, the widow who has been making life burdensome for the Rev. J. M. Thomas, pastor of the Union Baptist church, with her breach of promise suits, last evening entertained a large crowd of people at Carnegie with a weird lecture.

She spoke on a vacant lot near the old Chartiers Sheet Steel Company plant, and during her talk made many bitter remarks against the judges, attorneys and ministers of Pittsburgh and vicinity.

She said that during a dream she visited heaven and saw the late President McKinley and Evangelist Moody in a glorified state. In another room she saw a huge mass of crawling, creeping reptiles. Asking what these were, she was told they were lawyers and judges.

Mrs. McCloy further said that she had been notified, from heavenly sources, that if her case was carried to the supreme court she would win.

INSURGENTS FLEE AT GUNBOATS' APPROACH

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
PANAMA, COLOMBIA, June 22.—The fleet of gunboats returned here at 5 o'clock this afternoon with the news that the town of Agua Dulce had been captured Thursday, June 19.

As the government forces approached Agua Dulce over 100 government soldiers who had previously been captured by revolutionary forces under General Herrera and had been incorporated in the Liberal army, joined the government troops under command of General Bertt.

Agua Dulce was captured without resistance. The government gunboats went up the bay as far as the town itself. When the revolutionists sighted them they fled from the town, leaving behind 200 head of cattle and one sailing vessel full of produce.

VATICAN'S REPLY IS KEPT SECRET

General Tone of Rampolla's Letter to Taft Is Believed to Be Favorable.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]
ROME, June 22.—The reply of Cardinal Rampolla, papal secretary of state to the presentation by William H. Taft, civil governor of the Philippine islands, to the Vatican, of his instructions from Secretary of War Root, was received by Gov. Taft last night. It has been translated into English, but Taft does not deem it proper to permit its publication at the present stage of the proceedings.

Cardinal Rampolla has submitted a copy of his reply to Judge Taft to the committee of cardinals, which was formed to consider the matter of the religious orders and other church affairs in the Philippines, in order to inform them of the precise scope of the questions involved and upon which it is hoped that definite results shortly will be arrived at.

It cannot be said that any conclusion has as yet been reached, but the general tenor of Cardinal Rampolla's reply gives reason to expect that Gov. Taft's negotiations will be entirely successful.

Gov. Taft will answer Cardinal Rampolla's letter next Wednesday.

ZENO IN A NEW BALLOON

Aeronaut Was a New Kind of Sunday Attraction at Calhoun At the Other Parks.

There was considerable variety of entertainment at the traction parks yesterday. It ranged from a symphony concert to a balloon ascension, and both extremes were enjoyed by the large crowds present. Calhoun park had the largest Sunday attendance of the season. The attractions were Rocereto's Concert band and Anna Teresa Berger, cornetiste, playing at Kennywood on week days, and Mlle. Zeno, the "queen of the clouds," as the bills say.

The balloon ascension was to impart realism to a descriptive number on the afternoon band program and to test a new balloon which Mlle. Zeno proposes using at Schenley park on July 4. She ascended several thousand feet, did several "stunts" on a horizontal bar and descended safely under a parachute.

The break in the Rocereto engagement at Kennywood was filled by the Third Regiment band and Miss Adelaide Boutelle, an operatic mezzo-soprano. The work of the bandsmen and vocalist pleased large crowds both afternoon and evening. The "Laughing gallery" and the "Old mill" were crowded at all times.

The Chicago Newsboys' band opened a week's engagement at Oakwood park, Conductor O. B. Reichert and his novel band of youngsters will probably repeat their success of Southern park during the evenings this week.

The Boston Ladies' Symphony orchestra, which has been playing at Oakwood, moved to Southern park, where it will be heard all week. This is their last week in this vicinity.

REBEL GEN. CAILLES READY TO TESTIFY IN GARDENER CASE

Agrees With Malvar, Another Insurgent, That Tayabas Was Their Stronghold.

CHOLERA'S RAVAGES IN THE PHILIPPINES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]
MANILA, June 22.—The former insurgent Gen. Cailles, who surrendered to the American authorities in June, 1901, has notified the board which is investigating the charges of cruelty brought by Maj. Cornelius Gardener against American officers and soldiers in Tayabas province, Luzon, that he is willing to testify as to the conditions which existed in Tayabas province prior to his surrender and after Maj. Gardener had declared the province to be pacified.

Gen. Cailles says he agrees with Gen. Malvar, another former insurgent leader, who has already testified before the board, that Tayabas province was the best disciplined stronghold the insurgents had.

There are still several witnesses to be examined by the board which is investigating Maj. Gardener's charges.

Ninety American soldiers have died of cholera since the disease first broke out. Owing to the increase of cholera the health authorities here and in the provinces are enforcing stringent regulations. The total number of cases and deaths from the epidemic are: Manila, 1,330 cases and 1,236 deaths; provinces, 7,360 cases and 5,440 deaths.

Senor Villegas, former president of Santo Tomas, has been sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment for violating in several instances his oath of allegiance to the United States.

Capt. Frederick S. Wild of the Thirteenth Infantry has been sentenced by court-martial to be reprimanded for the burning of a native cockpit at Lingayen, province of Pangasinan, Luzon. It is presumed that the soldiers of Capt. Wild's command burned this cockpit from motives of revenge for the attempted killing of two of their comrades by natives.

GIFT TO WILMERDING.

Westinghouse Airbrake Company Pays Railroad Fares of All School Children to Idlewild.

The Westinghouse Airbrake Company has made a generous offer to the school board of Wilmerding—to pay the entire car fare of the 800 or 900 pupils of both the public and high schools of Wilmerding on their third annual excursion to Idlewild park next Wednesday. As a matter of course the kind offer was gratefully accepted.

This is the second time that the kindness of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company has been shown in this manner, the company having paid one-half of the entire car fare last year to the Ligonier Valley park. The cost to the Westinghouse Company this year will reach $800. As it also engages the Westinghouse Electric Concert band of 45 pieces for the entire day for the pleasure of the youngsters.

The Anti-Pattison Move.

The devotion of James Gay Gordon of Philadelphia to the political fortunes of ex-Congressman Kerr of Clearfield may be held to remove the former judge from the arena as an aspirant for the Democratic nomination for governor. There is more in this than appears on the surface. The Gordon boom was strong only in Philadelphia and a cipher elsewhere. But as the annex to the ambition of a statesman outside Philadelphia it will be influential to the extent of giving him a color of numbers not possessed by any other candidate in the list of those who promise to be recorded among the "also rans." This show of strength is in all probability an effort to concentrate the opposition to Pattison, represented by the field, on one candidate. While it is undoubtedly a good policy in general for the opponents of a strong candidate to get together, it is apparent that in this instance the chief utility of the move will be to expose the numerical weakness of the anti-Pattison forces. It is interesting to read in Judge Gordon's praise of Mr. Kerr his bad opinion of the former governor, but this instead of weakening Pattison with the country delegates will help him. The state Democracy, except in spots, long ago lined up against the Philadelphia Democracy and nothing has occurred to change the alignment. The situation, therefore, remains that the enmity of the ruling Democratic politicians of Philadelphia is a good political asset, and by the reverse working of the rule their friendship is a load that will handicap Kerr in his running. Unless the political straws are at fault the attempt to concentrate on Kerr marks the beginning of the end of the fight against Pattison, which has resolved itself, whether intentionally or not, into a fight against Guffey, thereby compelling him to look with a friendly eye on the man who has been twice governor.

Still the Anarchists.

In the sentencing of Johann Most by a New York court and the riotous proceedings at Paterson, N. J., all within a week, the country is forcibly reminded of the fact that we still have the anarchists to deal with in this country. It is according to the established policy of the "reds" that they attract as little attention as possible between the times which they select for some overt act of violence against the established order of things, so their unusual inactivity since the killing of President McKinley is easily explained. But that they still thrive and plan evil the Paterson affair amply proves.

Inciting to Violence.

Following the tragic assassination of President McKinley last September by an anarchist there was a wave of indignation that swept the whole country over the incendiary and at times criminal looseness that had characterized the conduct of some of the prominent newspapers opposed to the McKinley administration. There were one or two especial offenders in this direction which by cartoon and inflammatory editorial utterance were charged with giving aid and encouragement to the lawless creatures whose passions find vent in murder and deeds of violence.

The subject created a great deal of vigorous comment, and at one time the more resentful ones argued the necessity of some legal restraints upon the reckless system of journalism that regarded no person or subject too sacred for their jibes of scorn or cartoons of loathing. The matter, however, was allowed to drop as excitement over the death of the president subsided. It was hoped by very many that a lesson had been taught the free lance journalism of the country, which would bear fruit in a more orderly and decent conduct of opposition campaigns. This hope has been partially realized, and much of the old fierce denunciation of political and partisan foes has been softened and brought more nearly within the scope of legitimate controversy.

There are exceptions, however, where the offenders are again at their old tricks with as much vicious enjoyment of it as before the severe lesson taught them in the act of Czolgosz, and with a subject where the possibilities for evil are infinitely greater in some respects than in inciting anarchy to attack men in high government places. We refer to the newspaper treatment accorded the coal strike in some quarters. Cartoons representing starving families of the miners on one side and the feasting of wealthy Americans with European royalty on the other, not only misrepresent the facts as they actually exist, but they are viciously calculated to stir up the worst passions of evilly inclined men and lead to acts of violence and bloodshed. That a presumably respectable newspaper should feel called upon to resort to this method of commenting upon a purely industrial question shows a base and wanton disregard of the lives and property of the parties to both sides of the strike problem. There is in it neither reason nor argument. Ostensibly it is intended as a show of friendship for the miners, when in reality the leaders and friends of the strikers could not have a worse enemy than this brutal and incendiary style of controversy.

Responsibility for the Cuban Failure.

It is pointed out in the Washington correspondence of the New York Tribune that the Democratic United States senators are missing a golden opportunity to show their patriotism when they fail to give the administration a hearty support in its effort to have the Cuban reciprocity bill passed. There is no question that it would be a good stroke of party policy for the Democrats to help give relief to Cuba and thus have a claim on the voters of the nation to which they could point with pride in the coming congressional and state campaigns. However, it is more than likely the Democrats will take the view that the responsibility for Cuba rests on the shoulders of the Republicans and not on theirs, and that political capital for the Democrats is to be made by failure of Republicans through party divisions in the senate to keep party pledges to the nation and to the world. It is quite true that the responsibility for the relief of Cuba is a Republican responsibility, and it is unfortunate that Republican senators should make it impossible or even difficult to redeem the pledges of the Republican party made in platforms, and by two presidents and by congress, even the senate itself in effect subscribing to such a pledge when it tied the hands of Cuba with the Platt amendment. Fortunately, the administration and the lower house of congress have vindicated the good intention of the party responsible for legislation by exhausting their powers in the premises, thus fastening the culpability on a small minority in the senate. This fraction of the party must be left to reckon with public sentiment if it fails in its duty.

Cleveland vs. Hill.

The interesting gossip comes from New York on the heels of the Tilden club dinner that the eminent citizen of New Jersey, at whom Mr. Hill threw bouquets, came out of his loved retirement only because of a determination not to let Hill have the field all to himself, and because he wanted to oppose the Hill presidential boom with a boom for Richard Olney, attorney general and secretary of state in the Cleveland administration. The preliminaries of this boom are presumably under the hat of Borough President Jacob A. Cantor, who is counted on to oppose Hill's plans up to the point of being a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, if necessary, and, at least, to insist that the nominee shall not be a Hill man. This move of the only living ex-president of the United States is likely to have important consequences in the coming alignment of New York Democrats. John C. Sheehan is counted on to cut a considerable figure somewhere, and the Cleveland-Cantor combination is evidently leaning toward him for help, though, so far as appears, without having made any distinct advances to him. On the other hand, Sheehan has been saying things about the way Croker amassed his wealth, and Croker is reported to intend to come to this country in August and stay "just long enough to smash John Sheehan's face," an intention that may insure the co-operation of Tammany with Hill against the Cleveland Cantor combine. Another possible factor in the situation is William J. Bryan, who ignored the invitation of the Tilden club to dine, but who may accept the invitation of Tammany to speak on July 4. In the general mix-up he will have some influence. The Democratic situation in New York presents features that will be worth watching, but who would have suspected our old friend Cleveland of being the one to put the match to the trouble? It is quite apparent that the Tilden club dinner has not brought peace, but a sword, and, if it succeeded in bringing two eminent Democrats together, succeeded also in starting something not on the program of the promoters of the meal.

Unheralded Charity.

It is said that the explanation of the poverty of the late Amos Cummings of New York lies in the fact that he gave away every year a sum which if saved or invested profitably would have left his heirs all wealthy. Yet Mr. Cummings, without the knowledge of any one, except himself and the recipients of his bounty, made yearly contributions to the necessity of others that left him a poor man when he died and surprised and shocked his executors who expected to find his estate valuable. Nor is this all. The New York congressman's benefactions were such as to preclude the possibility of yielding returns in the way of public praise and glorification. One source of his expenditures was discovered in the dependence upon him of 150 or twelve indigent families, largely the families of civil war veterans. "In several instances," it is said, "he paid regularly the rent of these families, whose straitened circumstances appealed to his generously open hand year out for the last decade. Charities of this character, which were numerous, depleted his property so that he died practically penniless."

Who will be ready to say that this method of dispensing charity has not its advantages equal to if not greater than the bestowment of large sums for institutional or eleemosynary purposes? Not that it is right to impoverish oneself in order to aid others, but in its quiet, unostentatious helpfulness, in the entire self abnegation of the giver such an example sounds clear and true from the warm beatings of the heart.

The Joys of the Farm.

It is at the season of the year, when the city is a bake oven and life between bricks and mortar is a feverish torture by day and a disturbing nightmare by night, that the often despised and laughed at man from the rural districts is an object of universal envy. And he deserves to be, for of all the joys that life can give on its merely physical side, there are none to equal the free and comfort-giving pleasures of life on the farm in summer time. There is hard work to be done and an absence of many of the so-called "conveniences" to which the city-bred people have become used, but what are these as compared with the blessings that Nature has in store for those who live close to her heart in this season of her prodigality. The sun shines hot over the farm hills and meadows and the farmer must brave its scorching rays, but beneath his feet are cool velvet carpets of green that break the force of the sun's rays. Around him is an atmosphere pure and strength giving, while the shadow of great trees invites him to a leisure that may be enjoyed away from distracting sounds and the stifling dust and smoke of factory or mill fires. A cuisine that, down to the smallest detail, comes fresh from Nature's storehouse gives a zest to appetite and furnishes brain and body with new supplies of health and vitality.

The American farmer, despite the dreary pictures that are sometimes painted in his behalf, is a king whose empire at this time of year is an amphitheater for Nature's most delightful and inspiring performances. To the toiler in the city every step must be taken and every task accomplished by the exercise of sheer force of will and physical exertion under the most disheartening and uncomfortable surroundings. The farmer lives and works in joint partnership with the infinite forces of the earth, air and sky as his silent but eager partners. Fortunate the city man who has been wise enough to cultivate the acquaintance of country cousin or uncle or aunt during the days when they sought a glimpse of the city's winter life. That man has in prospect a refuge that, after all, is the best vacation tonic in the world—a visit to the old farm.

The Pittsburgh and Chicago baseball clubs gave as pretty an exhibition of ball playing in their nineteen-inning game as was ever seen on any diamond. The defeat of the Pirates at the end of the contest by one run is compensated for by the circumstance that they made their opponents work hard to accomplish it, and thereby give the fans of the Windy City the worth of their money. While defeat is a defeat, one of this kind is really a daisy.

Perhaps the present of a Panama hat might induce the sultan of Bacjod to take his assimilation without being tied to the ground while the administrator is at work.

If the Commoner expects to keep up with all the state conventions that fail to indorse Bryan and the Kansas City platform it will have to increase its editions.

One of the eastern seaside resorts has been made so desperate by weather conditions that it has adopted the "actress lost her diamonds" scheme to arouse public interest.

Now that they have to use soft coal some of the eastern cities are consoling themselves with the fact that it furnishes them the only means of getting into a class with Pittsburgh.

People of Venice were much incensed over the fact that J. Pierpont Morgan failed to become enthusiastic over the beauties of that city. What Venice lacks is portable or mergeable property.

The harmony likely to follow the Cleveland-Hill speeches looks now as if it might take on quite a Mt. Pelee-ist appearance.

President Roosevelt may find some consolation in the reflection that he is not the first man that has had a congress on his hands.

Between the "reds" and the mosquitoes New Jersey is having quite a Jake Smith of a time of it.

The Cornell university crews don't want the earth, but they are evidently preparing to show Mr. Morgan a thing or two about ruling the waves.

If the Erie convention wants to attract attention it might start in by indorsing the Cleveland-Hill harmony banquet.

Summer got quite a frosting on her first public appearance in this latitude.

Providence Was Assisted.

The following story of Senator Quay is told in the New York Times:

After the Pennsylvanian had made Benjamin Harrison president, he became angered because the Indiana man refused to give him a coveted appointment.

"You did not make me president; God made me president of this Nation," President Harrison is alleged to have told the senator.

"See if God will make you president again!" the wrathful senator is said to have replied.

Senator Quay refused to serve as national chairman a second time, and Harrison was defeated.

Was No Record-Breaker.

From the Chicago Tribune.

William Gillette, the great impersonator of Sherlock Holmes, once hired a yacht.

As he describes it, it was a craft without a rival in slow progression. With a few friends he set sail and proceeded upon a cruise. They kept close to the shore, and a week or two after they had left port were drifting lazily past a point of land, at the end of which sat a solitary man fishing. In a few hours the boat had passed the point, and the fisherman was seen to rouse himself from his contemplation of his rod.

"Where we from?" he called sardonically.

"New York," replied Gillette, with a yachtman's pride.

"How long?"

"Seventy hours!"

The fisherman relapsed to his fishing and the yacht kept on drifting. Some hours later there came a drawling voice over the quiet water and it asked:

"What year?"

Beginning of Saturday Half-Holiday Season

THE PITTSBURG GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square.
NEW YORK, June 22.

Yesterday was the first Saturday of the summer half holiday. Some firms began last Saturday, but most of them waited until yesterday, so that hundreds of thousands of employes were turned loose at once at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Some of the department stores will close in the afternoon next Saturday, keeping it up until September. For that reason the business done in the drygoods district yesterday was very large. In spite of the fact that it rained heavily at intervals from morning till night. Shoppers will have every other afternoon in the week except Sunday through the hot weather; but they felt, with the curious inconsistency of human nature, that only Saturday afternoon will do, and hence they rushed to the stores on the last Saturday afternoon they will be open for a few weeks with an eagerness that was surprising, considering the weather. As for the men, women and children released five hours earlier than usual they had cast off all care as they poured out of the stores, offices and factories. While it was too wet for the baseball, golf, tennis and other outdoor games they had promised themselves, there was the joy of being free, which the rain could not lessen, pour it ever so hard. Matinees at the theaters invited them; quiet nooks, with a favorite book, opened their arms to them; pool, ten-pins, ping-pong, cards, checkers — any or all of the indoor games dear to the heart while it is young, could be indulged in, while for women and girls there were the multifarious feminine occupations involving deft use of needle and thread, crochet needles and embroidery scissors, which are always piled up in arrears in every home. The ferryboats were rammed, jammed, crammed, in the fore part of the afternoon, while "L" trains and surface cars reeked with damp and steaming humanity eager to get to Harlem or the edges of Brooklyn. It was a typical summer Saturday in everything except the weather. The rain upset a number of pleasure plans, but it could not destroy the general satisfaction in the beginning of the summer half holiday season.

Pittsburghers Going Abroad.

On the Campania, which sailed from this port for Liverpool yesterday, were Scott E. McKeon and J. A. Schaulis of Pittsburgh. Miss E. Bakewell was a passenger on the Noordam.

Devery Goes into Business.

"Big Chief" Devery has embarked regularly in the real estate business now, with a few of his friends, and they have sumptuous offices downtown. The address is 150 Broadway, and on the entrance door of a large suite of rooms is a sign telling that W. S. Devery and John J. Byrne are ready to transact real estate business for all who may apply. The office has just been opened, but Devery has not got his chair warm yet, preferring to stay at home at Far Rockaway until the newness has worn off things downtown. He is expected to be at his desk in the course of the week, however. John J. Byrne is the man who purchased a large amount of valuable real estate for the "chief" a few weeks ago, setting the tongues of the gossips to wagging. The other partners are friends of Devery's, and at least two of them have had some swing in Tammany Hall circles.

Daniels' Company at Manhattan Beach.

It was not a good day for Manhattan Beach, with thunder and lightning and torrents of rain; but there was a good attendance there yesterday, notwithstanding. The principal attraction was Frank Daniels and his company in "Miss Simplicity" in the Seaside theater. The show was as good as it used to be on Broadway, and there was a good old Broadway crowd to enjoy it last evening.

The Panama Sign of Imperfection.

Over at Bayside, long Island, the girls have been making up their minds what constitutes an ideal young bachelor. They have come to a decision. One of the merits of the young man they have set up as the ideal bachelor is that "he doesn't wear a Panama hat." What evil there is in wearing a Panama hat if one can afford to pay for it does not appear. Perhaps it is condemned on the score of extravagance, although the average young woman does not usually concern herself about that weakness in a beau. Besides, immediately after the objection to the Panama hat, comes the trait, regarded as an excellent one by the young women, "Does not shy at an ice cream saloon." The man that does not "shy" at these temples of joy is not so likely to have money for a Panama hat as the thrifty youth who never asks a girl with tender anxiety: "Vanilla, chocolate or strawberry, or would you prefer Neapolitan?" At all events, the Young Ladies' Single Blessedness Debating society of Bayside has arrived at a decision on the subject, and their ideal man has all of those qualities and characteristics: Intelligent, handsome, modest, interesting, ambitious, discreet; has a manly voice, shapely hands and feet, a classic face, ting blood in auburn. The rain did not interfere with the actual contests, except in the case of baseball. The horses ran, the oarsmen rowed and the bicyclists wheeled as gaily in the drenching downpour as if the sun had been shining and the roads covered with dust instead of sticky mud. As for the oarsmen, what difference could a little more water make to them? They were in their element. The attendance at the races was not much affected by the bad weather, either. The race-goers will go, no matter what may be the conditions overhead and underfoot. It is true that there were not so many handsome feminine toilets in the grandstand as there would have been on a fine day, but the wearers of the toilets were there, in rain cloaks and "scuff hats," and seemed to be enjoying the races as much as usual if not more. When it comes to sport, New York is always there, even if it has to swim to the scene.

Chose the Smaller Evil.

Although soft coal is no longer in use on "L" engines passengers are still suffering from the effects of the strike in Pennsylvania. The company runs fewer trains, and the consequence is that each train is overloaded and people are jammed together worse than in the surface cars, if that could be possible. Still, as there is no black smoke pouring from the smokestacks, people living along the line do not object to the crowding. They are used to that.

A Difficult Landing.

It was anything but an easy thing for the incoming passengers on the big liners to walk gracefully down the gangplanks yesterday. The tide was high and the ram made the plank so slippery as the French vessel La Savoie was safely warped to her pier, that it was actual tobogganing to get down to the pier from the high deck. Twenty or 30 of the passengers actually sat down on the plank and slid for home, as it were, landing in this posture on free American soil, amid the applause of the heartless wretches on the pier. Other liners had about the same experience, in a milder degree. The hand ropes were not of much avail in any case, and there were spirited scenes at all the piers throughout the day. A lot of distinguished personages came over on the various steamers, which added to the interest when one of them missed his footing and shot the chutes to shore.

Gotham's Wealthiest Policeman.

New York police captains are all "comfortable," so far as this world's goods are concerned. Some of them are even wealthy. The richest man in the police department is said to be Capt. Daniel Moynihan. His money was not made in stocks or bonds, but in real estate. He is credited with being worth from $500,000 to $800,000. This may be exaggerated, but his wealth is certainly considerable. Moynihan has the reputation of being a very close man, and of always being able to get back two cents for every one he spends. The captain's hobby for years has been real estate, and it is said that he is at present the owner of a number of tenement houses in Harlem, in one real estate deal he is even said to have spent $60,000, while the house he lives in on University Heights is said to have cost him $40,000. When a sergeant, Moynihan's wealth was placed at $150,000. The increase was made chiefly in real estate. He was appointed a captain by Theodore Roosevelt when the present president of the United States was a police commissioner in New York city.

A Token of Porto Rico Prosperity.

The first big shipment of silver to Porto Rico from the United States was made from this port yesterday. J. M. Ceballos & Co. sent $100,000 in silver coin of the United States to a firm in Porto Rico in payment of some local obligations. It was explained that silver was sent in preference to gold or paper currency because silver is needed in Porto Rico. Silver is a heavy metal, and when such a large sum as that shipped yesterday has to be carried, it cannot be sent in any way except as first-class freight. The $100,000 weighed nearly three and a half tons. As is generally known, since Uncle Sam took possession of Porto Rico, the good truth, heavenly eyes, a winning smile, is polite, kind, truthful, honest; doesn't wear a Panama; has plenty of money, and does not shy at ice cream saloons. The best—or the worst—of it is that the society proclaims a young lawyer of their town as possessing all these merits, and the boys are guying the life out of him.

A Great Sporting Day.

Yesterday was a busy day in sporting circles here. What with the races at Sheepshead Bay, the Century bicycle run, and the regatta up the Hudson, there was enough excitement to stir the sportlatter's credit has been excellent and its municipalities have issued bonds in large amounts for local improvements and to pay off old bonds bearing a high rate of interest. Prosperity generally is coming the way of this nation's new possessions.

Coronation Will Make the Street Dull.

It is expected that the holidays in London this week, on account of coronation festivities, will make business quiet in Wall street. The London stock exchange will be closed on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and some of the principals of stock exchange houses in this city with international exchanges, are making arrangements to spend those days at the seashore, or in the country.

Wave of Immigration from Roumania.

It is reported that thousands of Roumanian Jews are on their way to New York from their own country. Many of them are so poor that they prefer to walk the distance from Roumania to Hamburg and Bremen rather than to pay for transportation. Over on the East Side the expected influx of immigrants from Roumania is the general topic of conversation. Many of the people said to be coming are tailors or skilled workmen. In other trades, while a certain percentage of them will help to swell the army of push-cart peddlers in this city. The report of the coming of so many poverty-stricken strangers might be ominous were it not that the immigration laws here are well administered, and unless an immigrant can show that he is not likely to become a burden on the community, he is promptly sent back to his own country. Down in the Ghetto, where there are many Roumanians, it is said that there is no fear of the newcomers being without means when they reach New York. They have studied the American immigration regulations too closely to take any risk of being deported.

Always Something Doing in Paterson.

Paterson, N. J., is under military rule, but that was not enough to frighten away the usual crowd of Sunday visitors today. It is well understood in this city that "there is always something going on in Paterson," and it is the custom of many persons here who want a little Sunday excitement to run up to that city and see what is on the carpet. The Boschieter case, the big fire, the flood and now the anarchistic disturbances, each in their turn, have drawn large numbers of visitors from New York and other cities and towns, and Paterson is always a busy place on Sunday. A pretty town, with magnificent rural surroundings, Paterson might well be a show place in summer without extraneous attractions. As it is, however, there is always a "feature" or two that makes it doubly pleasing to the curiosity-monger. Many hundreds, if not thousands, of strangers went into Paterson today just to look around, as they said.

Gates in Derby Luck.

John W. Gates is regarded in New York as one of the shrewdest of prophets in other things than Wall street securities. He backed the horse Wyeth heavily for the American derby, it is said, and although the animal started at odds of 12 to 1 John W. never faltered in his confidence that the winner would be Wyeth. The world knows the result by this time. It is interesting to note that Mr. Gates is booked to sail for Europe from this port on Wednesday and that he is still in Chicago, apparently with no intention of crossing the Atlantic for weeks. It was said tonight about the hotel lobbies—particularly in the Waldorf, which is Gates' home when he is in town—that he would not go over this week, because he is having too much fun in Chicago squeezing the bears in corn. Another thing, his winnings on the American derby having been so large he may be inclined to try his prophetic soul again in connection with the turf. All this is merely gossip, and it is well understood that Gates may turn up in New York on any fast train from the west and sail away on Wednesday, according to schedule, as the perfectly natural thing.

THE MAN UP A TREE

From a High Viewpoint.

With the fall of Judge Shafer, the Daughters of the American Revolution have gallantly repelled the attack on the block house.

Here's hoping that the American eagle will not be compelled to carry around a little tin cup in his beak, soliciting contributions to the Independence Day celebration.

The lot of a policeman at Paterson, N. J., is not a happy one.

Stating Her Intentions.

"I understand," remarked Miss Summer, as she stepped blithely to the front of the stage, "that Miss Spring treated you very coldly at times; but you need have no fear of a continuance of that sort of thing. I shall certainly make it hot enough for you."

He Was Only Sarcastic.

"It's perfectly dreadful the way the United States is treating its subject peoples," remarked Mr. Homewood to an "anti" friend.

"Yes, it is," replied the opposer of the administration, "but I thought you supported the government's insular policy. What has come under your notice to change your opinion?"

"I didn't say my opinion was changed. I have just read that the United States has already built 500 schoolhouses in Porto Rico. That's all."

They Are All There.

The poet of the Montgomery (Ill.) News, who has turned off the following, seems to have made a very complete catalogue of the joys of June:

June is the month when roses bloom and when we greet the bride and groom, the month in which the young corn grows and barefoot urchins drag their toes; the month in which the skies shoal and johnnie learns the swimming hole. He stays away and gets a dandy out, oh, his shirt is wrong side out! The housefly comes and stays till fall and punctuates the kitchen wall; the June bug tells you he is here and bats you in the ear; the moths eat in your winter clothes and insects gambol up your nose. The pickle season is at hand and the Sunday schools engage the band. The maiden dons a thin shirt waist and shocks her mother with her taste. The housewife makes gooseberry pie that's full of juice and lucifi.

He Could Not Understand.

There's one thing I can't understand."

said Mr. Manchester.

"Only one?" Mr. Birmingham replied, slyly.

"There's one thing I can't understand," Mr. Manchester repeated, ignoring his friend's interruption, "and that is why the undersized chaps, with the smallest heads, insist upon wearing the very biggest and broadest brimmed Panama hats."

But Mr. Birmingham could throw no light on the subject.

LIFE.

Let me but live my life from year to year,
With forward face and unbedimmed eyes;
Not hastening to nor turning back from the goal;
Not mourning for the things that disappear
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear
From what the future veils; but with a whole
And happy heart, that pays its toll
To youth and age, and travel on with cheer.

So let the way wind up the hill or down,
Through rough or smooth, the journey will be joy:
Still seeking what I sought when but a boy—
New friendship, high adventure, and a crown.
I shall grow old, but never lose life's zest,
Because the road is that love's light will lead me best.
—Henry Van Dyke in The Outlook.

PERSONALS

B. Okazaki, Hokkaido government engineer of Sapporo, Japan, is at the Monongahela house. He has been in the United States for the past two months inspecting the Mississippi river basin. "I have been sent by the government of Hokkaido," he said, "to America and Europe to inspect the hydraulic engineering work in those two countries. My government is interested in river improvements, and it is for this reason I have been sent on an inspection tour. About 33 years ago the northern colony of Hokkaido was opened. One of the largest rivers in Japan, known as Ishikari, flows through this colony, and my government intends to improve it. Two problems are to be worked. One is the retaining of the channel in its natural bed, and the other is to prevent overflows and inundations. I made a careful inspection of the Ends jetties at New Orleans and am much impressed with them. I will leave America about the middle of July to inspect the rivers of Germany. Yes, the Japanese are progressive. Just as soon as any new mechanical appliance is brought out in Europe or America, we adopt it or make improvements on it. That is what helps to make our progress rapid. There is plenty of coal of excellent quality in Japan, but hardly any iron ore. The government is constructing a large steel plant in Southern Japan, which when completed will cost over $10,000,000. At the start it will turn out about 240,000 tons of steel annually from the raw material, which will be exported from America and Europe. I think that the most of the machinery for the new plant will be purchased in this country."

A marriage that will be of interest to society in the Monongahela and Turtle Creek valleys will be solemnized next Thursday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Henry Coursin on the Pittsburgh, McKeesport & Youghiogheny railroad above McKeesport. Their daughter, Miss Augusta Louise Coursin, will become the wife of William Gray Larimer of Braddock. The service will be performed at 7 o'clock in the morning to enable the young couple to reach New York the same evening. On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Larimer will sail on the Umbria. Mr. Larimer goes to Manchester to take a position with the British Westinghouse Company's plant.

W. P. Townsend of New York, accompanied by his wife and daughter, passed through Pittsburgh to San Francisco last night. He will take charge of the large hotel being erected by Mrs. Herman Gelrichs of New York at Knob Hill, San Francisco.

"The largest safe in the world will not be in Pittsburgh," said M. Mosier, president of the Mosler Safe Company of Hamilton, O., at Union station last night. "It will be constructed in Chicago, and will cost $300,000. It will be built for the First National bank of Chicago."

O. S. Jacobs, president of the Philadelphia Paper Company, passed through the city last night. "Business is excellent with us," he said, "and the outlook is for a continuance of it."

Said to Be True.

A frequent visitor to Toronto is Charles Cable, farmer and oil man, who lives across the river on the hill above the pump station, about two and a half miles from Toronto. He was here today and told the story. It is given as he told it.

"I killed the biggest black snake on my farm yesterday I ever saw. It must have been 12 or 14 feet long and as big around as a stove pipe. It was between the rails of the fence, evidently coming through to the side it was on and I was startled. My first impulse was to shoot, but ran in a second that the snake was unable to come through. He had swallowed a rabbit, which made such a big bulge in his body that he could not get through. He did not have some enough to turn back, but he tried and struggled in his attempt to get through.

"Just then a rabbit that had been scared up by my dog came bounding along and stopped in front of the snake. The snake fascinated the rabbit, who became easy prey and was swallowed right on the spot before my eyes. Then I was to shoot, but ran in a second hole in the fence with the rabbits inside of him, one on each side, which enlarged his body so he could not come through or go back. I saw he was fast and mustered up courage to strike him with a club. It took several blows with all my strength to kill him. I cut him open and the last rabbit he had swallowed went bounding away, but the other one had been swallowed for some time and was dead. I'm sure that snake was 12 or 14 feet long. I wish I had measured him."—Toronto (O.) Daily Tribune.

The species of serpent known as the "black racer" is said to be quite plentiful hereabout this season. Several specimens have been recently killed near here and those who go out in the country are keeping a sharp lookout for these exceedingly venomous reptiles. Our Great and Good Friends.

They're coming with the steamers now, from almost every land;
From Greenland's icy mountains clear to India's coral strand;
The emperor of China sends a shaft that's sure to please,

And like the statue-giving heads of all the other powers,
He vows that Wun Shi Lung was once a great big friend of ours.

Good Abdu' Hamid orders that his sculptors all shall sculp,
Or else he'll hold a festival and grind them to a pulp.
He thinks he'll send a deity thing—a bone and fireside group,

The label on the soup can show Chicago's street-sand lowered,
While proves that Abdu' Hamid always was a friend of ours.

The kings of Senegambia and sultan of Sulu have dyed each others' hair and dances and feasts and fetes in Harry Thaw's honor.
The Kingdom of Bulgaria show how their love is true,
By sending a monument we will send the world;
And old Abe Gig and little Mike and heads of the powers,
Are sending sculptured things to show that they are friends of ours.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Edwin A. Coyle.

Word was received in Pittsburgh last night of the sudden death at Louisville, Ky., yesterday afternoon of Edwin A. Coyle, a brother of W. L., Robert J. Jr. and Reed B. Coyle of this city. The cause of death is said to have been paralysis of the heart. Mr. Coyle was in his 58d year. He was formerly a well-known Pittsburgher, but for the past 22 years he had been a resident of Louisville. Previous to the formation of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company he was a managing partner in the coal firm of Joseph Walton & Co. and looked after the Louisville end of the firm's

FULLY 25,000 PEOPLE CAN HEAR THE PRESIDENT

Excellent Arrangement of the Stand at Schenley Park.

NATURAL AMPHITHEATER

Chairman Logan Looked Things Over Yesterday and Was Well Pleased. Boulevard Affords a Panorama. Stunning Fireworks Ordered.

Col. A. J. Logan, chairman of the executive committee having in charge the coming Greater Pittsburgh Fourth of July celebration, in company with Director J. Guy McCandless of the department of public works, and W. H. Williams, chairman of the committee on carriages, visited Schenley park yesterday afternoon. They inspected the president's stand and expressed themselves as highly pleased with it. The stand is so placed that thousands of people can see the president from any point on the green sward south of the stand.

The ground in this direction practically forms an ampitheater and the view of the great mass of people who will congregate there will doubtless form an interesting and inspiring scene. It is expected that fully 25000 persons will be able to get within hearing of President Roosevelt during his address.

While the woodwork of the stand is finished there is still much to be done in the way of decorating. The Joseph Horne Company has the contract for the decorations, and they promise something not only elaborate, but very tasteful.

Big Chorus to Sing "America."

The band that discourses patriotic music during the exercise will occupy the band pavilion to the right of the president's stand, in the rear of the band pavilion will be the German singing societies which will lead the singing of "America" at the close of the exercises.

Superintendent William Falconer of the bureau of parks said yesterday that he expects to have the various refreshment booths located on the sidewalks in front of the conservatory. He has urged all who have taken concessions to spare no pains to decorate properly for the occasion. All the booths must look bright and cheerful as befits the national holiday.

Apropos of the criticism of the Grant boulevard as a part of the route of parade a well known citizen said last night: "To my mind it is eminently fitting that the president should pass over the boulevard. He first sees the wholesale district of the city; then the mills and workshops; the houses of the poor and humble; and later on the broad East Liberty valley spread out like a panorama, into thousands of beautiful homes. When he meets the people in the park the president will have seen much of the city that will impress him. It will broaden his ideas of this great industrial center."

Allegheny's Superb Fireworks.

Although City Recorder John R. Murphy of Allegheny has not yet received sufficient subscriptions to cover the cost of the Fourth of July fireworks he proposes to give the Allegheny people, he has entered into a contract for $2,000 worth of fireworks. The director said yesterday that he had faith in the public spirited citizens of Allegheny and felt that they would subscribe sufficient funds to cover the cost of the displays.

Recorder Murphy says the displays, which will be made from Seminary hill and Troy hill, will be the finest ever shown on the North side. There will be less "duff" pieces than heretofore, but there will be a much more brilliant aerial display than usual.

Each display will be started with two mammoth meteoric balloons, and a salute of six monster aerial shells, which can be heard for miles. A feature of the Seminary hill display will be the exhibit, "Niagara Falls," which will be 30 feet high and 250 feet long.

A Two Hours Program.

Two 30-inch shells, which explode at a great height, each releasing a mammoth bouquet, will be fired during the evening. This is something entirely new. In all there will be over 1,000 displays, varying cloud dust precipitations in all colors to monster shells shooting forth thousands of variegated colored designs. The program will last for over two hours.

Recorder Murphy says if the contributions will admit of it, he will order more fireworks and add some features he was compelled to leave out of the program for lack of funds.

The usual display will be made at the City home for the benefit of the inmates there.

Elaborate preparations are being made for a display of fireworks in Sewickley on the evening of July 4. A committee composed of Edward A. Woods, Alexander C. Robinson, Dale Bakewell and J. B. Semple is collecting money for this purpose and something fine is promised.

Fourteen German singing societies, with a membership of 400, have already announced their intention of taking part in the singing in honor of President Roosevelt during his visit here on the Fourth. It is expected that nearly all the singing societies in Allegheny county will soon notify the committee that they will participate. The first general rehearsal will be held next Sunday afternoon in Old City hall.

MOURNED GAYTONS DEATH

Tribute Paid to an Enthusiastic Worker for the St. Paul Orphans by Fellow Workers.

The managers of the coming picnic for the benefit of St. Paul's Orphan Asylum held their second meeting last night at St. Paul's cathedral. There was an increased attendance, a number of additional parishes sending representatives.

A feature of the evening was the regret expressed over the sudden death of Hugh Gaytons. For years he was an enthusiastic worker in behalf of the orphans and at the first meeting, held a week ago, he was in attendance and took an active part in the discussion, prophesying that this would be a "$15,000 picnic." His death following so soon was a severe shock. The Rev. Regis Canevin paid a high tribute to Mr. Gaytons and Chairman Frank J. Totten and the Rev. Father Lynch were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressing the sentiments of the meeting.

The work at last night's meeting was of a general nature, different propositions for handling and amusing the crowds expected at Calhoun on July 16 and 17 being considered. Considerable work was done on the committees, but it was not completed and these will not be made public until the latter part of the week.

Only $1, That a Dance.

CORRY, PA., June 22.—The Rev. George Green is at war with the congregation of the Baptist church at Findley's lake. One faction insists upon his resignation, but he will not be ousted. Today during his sermon, he accused one member of the congregation of only contributing $1 for his support. The accused arose and said he felt he had been bulldozed at that figure.

Bellboy Under Arrest—John Harding, aged 14 years, an elevator boy at the Hotel Kenmawr, was arrested last night as a suspicious person. One of the guests missed a sum of money and as Harding had been seen coming out of the room shortly before, he was placed under arrest.

Bad Man With a Knife—Walter Flipping, colored, was arrested on Penn avenue, at Thirtieth street, last night by Police Officer James Delehanty. When approached by the officer Flipping was surrounded by a crowd of colored men. He had a large knife and it is alleged had tried to cut a colored man.

Did Not Break the Laws—It was said last week that the confectioners, restaurant keepers and druggists of Carnegie had agreed on a general opening to take place yesterday, but it failed to materialize. The usual Sunday "blue laws" were observed, and ice cream, soda water, cigars, etc., were still under the ban.

Berkins Was a High Liver—Police Captain George McClelland and Lieut. Garrett Crosson climbed up 100 feet on the hill above Second avenue, back of "Yellow Row" yesterday morning and arrested Thomas Berkins for keeping a disorderly house there. A lot of beer and whisky was found in the place.

Heart Disease Caused Death—Richard Wilson, aged 65 years, of No. 60 Washington street died while working in his room last night, of heart disease. He was hanging some pictures and became exhausted. He summoned his children, and Dr. T. B. Elliott was sent for. Wilson died as the physician was entering the room.

Aged Woman Seriously Hurt—Mary Scanlon, aged 60 years, employed as a cook by George W. Guthrie of the Woodland road, is at the Charity hospital in a serious condition as the result of being struck by a car at Fifth and College avenues, Saturday night. She got off a car and attempted to cross the street when she was struck by a car going in the other direction.

Fast Engineers, Brothers—It is a coincidence that two Wilkinsburg railroad men who are brothers are engineers of the two 20-hour trains recently placed in service on the Pennsylvania between New York and Chicago. These men are Robert and Moses Anderson. The former has charge of the throttle on No. 20, from Altoona to Pittsburgh, and the latter has charge of the Pennsylvania special, No. 28, from Pittsburgh to Altoona.

Slimmer Lost No Time—Superintendent of Police Henry Muth of Allegheny last night issued an order to the police to arrest all persons who congregate on the streets and annoy passersby, especially women and girls. Many complaints have come to him of boys and young men crowding the sidewalks, using insulting and indecent remarks to women and girls passing, and even crowding them off the pavements. Officer Oscar Slimmer promptly arrested four young men from Pittsburgh at Federal street and Stockton avenue. They gave their names and addresses as follows: John Loonan, No. 18 Locust street; John Wilson, No. 131 Crawford street; James Kane, No. 86 Lombard street; John White, No. 46 Camp street.

WILL PROBABLY AWAIT HOFFSTOT'S RETURN

Merger of Haggin-Rubino Interests and Pressed Steel Car Company Likely to Be Delayed.

The American Car and Foundry Company will hold its annual meeting at Camden, N. J., tomorrow and developments are anticipated in relation to the merger scheme of the Haggin-Rubino interests with the Pressed Steel Car Company of Pittsburgh. Frank N. Hoffstot, president of the Pressed Steel Car Company, is now in Europe and it may be that the deal will remain pending till his return, in about six weeks.

Both sides are working hard to close the deal, not under the usual methods of such deals, each to get the better end of it, but in anticipation of the strong rivalry that the new Standard Steel Car Company of Pittsburgh promises. The Standard has some of the strongest financial interests of Pittsburgh back of it and along with them the Hill-Harriman railroad syndicates of the west. The Standard Company, which plans to start operations at Butler in August, is now loaded with probably as many orders as the Pressed Steel Car Company.

It is understood by people in Pittsburgh, who are interested, that no definite basis has been arranged for the merger of the American Car and Foundry and the Pressed Steel Car Companies. In the absence of a basis for the merger, which is made difficult to arrive at by reason of the unpaid $4,500,000 bonds of the Pressed Steel Car Company, those near to the promoters of the deal believe that the matter will go over till President Hoffstot returns.

The American Company has $60,000,000 in stock and no bonds. The Pressed Steel Car Company has $25,000,000 in stock and $4,785,000 in funded debt.

Another Historic Church to Celebrate Its Centenary; Warm Comment on the Coming Coronation of King Edward

U. P. CHURCH AT MT. PLEASANT IS 100 YEARS OLD

Centenary Celebration Is to Be Held by Congregation This Week.

MANY OTHERS INTERESTED

Visitors from Pittsburgh Will Attend the Historic Event—Reminiscences of Mungo Dick of Scotland, a Famous Old Pastor.

Next Thursday will be an eventful day in the history of Mt. Pleasant, a historic town situated on the old stage road between Cumberland and Pittsburgh. The United Presbyterian church of that place is to celebrate its centenary, and the entire town and people from surrounding counties are to take part. Many Pittsburghers will attend the centennial, a special train leaving for that purpose early Thursday morning.

The Rev. Dr. A. G. Wallace of Sewickley is to deliver the centennial address, and the Rev. Dr. J. T. McCrory of the Third church, this city, will speak in the evening on "The Scotch-Irish in America." The Rev. Howard S. Wilson, present pastor of the church, with the assistance of the Rev. Dr. J. C. Boyd, has compiled a voluminous account of the Mt. Pleasant church and its historic connections. A choir of 100 voices, assisted by Edward Dermit of this city, will furnish the music.

Celebrated Scotch Preacher.

The Mt. Pleasant church is noted, among other things, for having had in its early days one of the most learned, and at the same time the wittiest of preachers, the celebrated Mungo Dick of Scotland. He was born in Fifeshire, Scotland, and graduated from the University of Edinburgh. He came to this country in 1801, and joined the Associate Reformed presbytery of New York. Later he came west, and was received, licensed and ordained by the Monongahela presbytery in 1806. He was afterward installed pastor of Sewickley, which embraced the mission of Mt. Pleasant and Donnilstown, now New Alexandria, Pa.

In a review of his labors it is stated that Mungo Dick "was fond of a good jest, and was not unfrequently the perpetrator of a joke that provoked much amusement." Mungo Dick had a fault common to many preachers, that of repeating sermons.

It is said that he was known to have delivered the same sermon three times in one day, in the same place. He argued that his flock would thus "ken wha tae live justly." In those days it was customary in country congregations to have two sermons, with an interval of a half-hour between each.

Gave the Colonel a Set-Back.

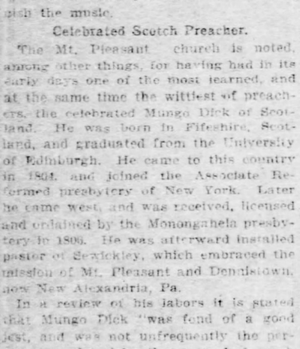
One Sunday a certain colonel called Mungo Dick to task for preaching the same sermon so often.

"So ye hae heard me preach the same sermon three times over?" said the good preacher. "Weel, weel, ye'll ken a guide bit about it, will ye nae? Tell me wha it was at aboot? Ye canna tell me, eh? I thocht as much. Weel, tell me aboot the heide of my sermon."

The colonel was obliged to confess that he could not remember a word, whereupon Mungo Dick retorted in his dry Scotch manner: "I'm thinkin', sir, ye'll hae tae hear Mungo Dick a fourth time, afore his sermons gets into yer heed."

The Mt. Pleasant congregation was organized in 1802 and is the oldest institution of the town. Nine years previous an enterprising German erected the first public house there, or as it was called, "a tavern for the entertainment of travelers." This historic tavern still stands, a relic of old turnpike days.

A history of the church states that a shelter called a tent was erected on the Connellsville road, about a stone's throw from Robbestown and Somerset pike, and this marked the beginning of the United Presbyterian church in that section, and the standard of the cross there set up has never been taken down."



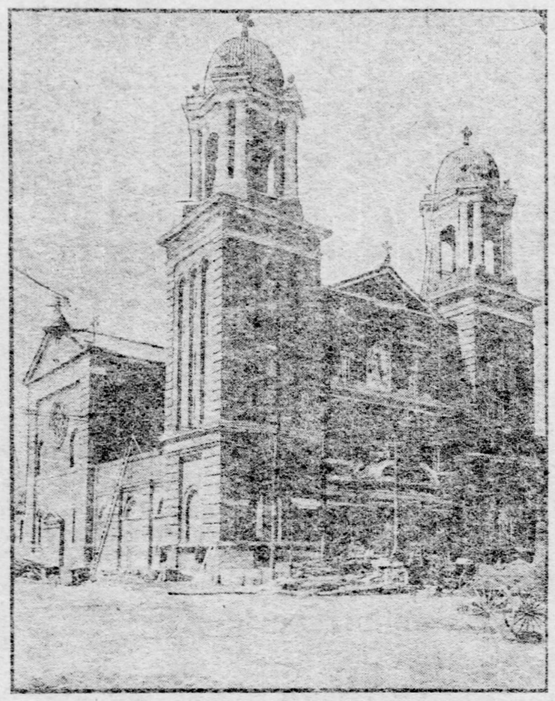
THE REV. R. B. TAGGART, Who Succeeding Former Pastor of the Mt. Pleasant United Presbyterian Congregation.

Noted Men of the Church.

Among the Mt. Pleasant pastors were the Rev. Richard Culley, 1839-49; the Rev. D. H. Pollock, 1849-53; the Rev. James Fife, 1856-61; the Rev. Alexander B. Fields, 1862-66; the Rev. J. A. Nelson, 1871-75, the Rev. Robert Brewster Taggart, 1877-82. Mr. Taggart is the only survivor of the early pastors. He is now a professor in Ruskin college, Trenton, Mo., and is expected to be present at the centenary exercises.

The present pastor, the Rev. H. S. Wilson, was called in 1884. His pastorate is notable for being the longest in the history of the church. Mr. Wilson is a graduate of Westminster. He was married to Nannie S. Long of Laurel Hill in 1886, and two years later the congregation built a handsome parsonage for them. Mrs. Wilson died in 1893.

One of the oldest elders of the church, John Hunter, died in 1888, after a service lasting throughout 40 years. He is represented in the church by his sons, James G. and William A. Hunter, and his daughter, Mrs. L. F. Miller of Connellsville. Samuel Warden, clerk of the session for 40 years, died in 1898.



St. Casimer's Lithuanian Roman Catholic Church, South Side, Dedicated Yesterday.

DEDICATION WAS MADE IMPOSING

ST. CASIMER'S CONGREGATION IN POSSESSION OF NEW EDIFICE.

Lithuanian Roman Catholics Have Made Wonderful Strides in Nine Years and Now Worship in a $125,000 Structure on Which They Have Paid $80,000.

The new church of the St. Casimer's Lithuanian Roman Catholic congregation, at South Twenty-second and Sarah streets, the Rev. Father John Suthaitis, rector, was dedicated yesterday morning. Because of ill-health the Right Rev. Richard Phelan, bishop of the diocese, was unable to be present and the dedication ceremony was performed by the Very Rev. E. A. Bush of Allegheny, vicar general.

About 3,000 people were in attendance. Many of the Catholic societies turned out in uniform, among them the Lithuanian Knights of Wytowt, the German Knights of St. George and the societies of the church.

The Knights of St. George acted as escort to Vicar General Bush from his Allegheny residence to the church.

Music was furnished by a large choir selected from a number of Catholic church choirs and the Pittsburgh Philharmonic Society.

After the dedicatory services mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father John M. Woshner. It was the young priest's first mass, he having been but recently ordained to the priesthood at St. Vincent's abbey. The arch presbyter was the Rev. Father John Gorzynski, with the Rev. Father A. Tarkowski as deacon.

The church is a fine structure of brick and stone, exceptionally well lighted and elaborately finished inside. Nearly 500 electric globes will be used in illuminating the church. The congregation, which numbers about 600, was organized by the Rev. Father John Sutkaitis about nine years ago. The cost of the structure was $125,000, of which more than $80,000 has been paid by the congregation.

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH AND ITS MISSION HERE

The Rev. Dr. John McNaugher in a Strong Sermon Defined the Work Christians Have to Do.

The Rev. Dr. John McNaugher of the Allegheny Theological seminary occupied the pulpit of the Third United Presbyterian church, Allegheny, yesterday morning. His theme was "The Christian Church." After tracing the apostolic origin of the church he turned to its extraordinary history, showing how, despite constant opposition, it had reached world-wide dimensions and had maintained its spiritual life and its essential creed.

"The church," he declared, "has a five-fold mission to the world. It is charged with guarding intact the testimony of divine truth committed to its keeping. It must defend the doctrines of the gospel against all error. The church has likewise an obligation; it must provide for the public adoration and praise of God, so that His name shall never cease to be venerated by all men and all nations. Again, the church in its worship, instruction, communion, is the nurture of Christian life.

"Another and foremost responsibility is the publication of the gospel to all mankind. It is essentially a missionary society and according to the orders of its Divine Founder, must bear a universal message to all the world. This message is the salvation of immortal souls. It is a message of redemption and of pardon.

"Finally, the church must be the living witness, the exterior standard-bearer to truth and the law of Almighty God in social, industrial, commercial and political life. Such a calling, such a mission, has constituted the church of God the guardian of all that is best in civilization and given it a place in the van of social progress. The outlook for God's kingdom was never better than it is at this moment. Let all Christians be loyal to the church of God; let all hear God through His church; let them co-operate with His ministers in their work, and we shall see a better and a nobler world for it."

ADDRESS TO GRADUATES.

Carnegie High School Pupils Listen to Eloquent Baccalaureate Sermon.

The baccalaureate sermon to the Carnegie High school graduates was preached last night in the Carnegie United Presbyterian church by the Rev. John A. Snodgrass of the Baptist church.

The graduates met at the High school building at 7 o'clock and marched to the church in a body. Mr. Snodgrass preached a sermon full of advice to the young folks.

CHRISTIANITY'S SUPREME NEEDS

SERMON ON WORDS WITH WHICH CHRIST REBUKED SATAN.

The Rev. G. P. Atwell Says That in This Materialistic Age They Should Be Thundered in the Ears of the People. Interest in Missionary Work.

"The Supreme Needs of Christianity" was the subject of a sermon delivered yesterday in the Riverdale Presbyterian church, Shousetown, by the pastor, the Rev. George P. Atwell. His text was

THE REV. GEORGE P. ATWELL, Pastor of the Riverdale Christian Church at Shousetown.

"Thou shalt not live by bread alone." He spoke in part as follows:

The term "bread," in a comprehensive sense, includes the whole visible economy of life, all that range of supplies and helps upon which man depend to make life comfortable and enjoyable. All the temporary transient things of this world, therefore, are bread, and man cannot live by them alone. Surely in this materialistic age these words need be thundered in the ears of the people, for we see men toiling and striving, and relaxing their finest energies to secure these evanescent material things as if they were the summum bonum of all things both of this world and that to come. As if, in a word, they could live by "bread," and "bread" alone.

It is universally conceded that this world is not what it should be, that human nature is perverted by sin, and that as a result there is suffering and sorrow, degradation and want and misery and wretchedness. What, then, can be done to better these conditions? From various sources come various answers.

Some say the world's greatest need is a reformation, and all their energies are bent to bring this about along the lines of external reform. Others tell us that education is the panacea for all our ills. Still others, that an ideal system of government would bring about happier results. All of these things are factors in the culture of humanity, but there is yet a more effectual remedy than all these.

The only helpful remedy for the times, a remedy fully commensurate for the greatest needs of humanity, is religion of Jesus Christ. The supreme need of humanity is christianity. Here is the sphere for the philanthropist, a wide field for those who have at heart the welfare of humanity. Men are now beginning to realize this, hence the intense interest in missionary work and the church's efforts to reach the masses.

SERMON ON STRIKES.

The Rev. W. B. Slutz Preaches on Cause and Cure and is Thankful for Arbitration's Work.

In a sermon having for its topic "The Cause and Cure of Labor Strikes," delivered yesterday by the Rev. W. B. Slutz, pastor of the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, he took occasion to repeat that truism that it is impossible to discuss labor problems without discussing Christian socialism, and that there will continue to be unrest and agitation in the ranks of capital and labor so long as there is failure to recognize the teachings of the golden rule of Christ. Reference was made to the strike in the anthracite coal regions which threatens to spread to other coal fields, and among other things Mr. Slutz said this:

"There is no such condition as absolute independence. The laboring man shares in the fruitage of wisely invested capital just as the capitalist is benefited by the results of labor. Labor would be idle without capital and capital would be paralyzed without labor. The death of ultra-selfishness must be cast out of men's hearts before rational equity shall dominate the office as well as the factory.

"But let us be thankful that progress is being made. The national board of arbitration will yet accomplish a world of good. Representative business men and heads of corporations of the George W. Childs type are mighty factors in bringing about a higher and nobler civilization.

Almost everybody knows somebody whose stubborn Cough or Lung trouble was cured by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant.

BETTER TO BE AN AMERICAN THAN ENGLAND'S KING

The Rev. J. A. Jayne Painted a Word Picture of the Coronation.

GAVE EDWARD HARD RAPS

Pastor of the Observatory Hill Christian Church Made Comparisons Between Crowning of Edward and the Great Heavenly Coronation.

"Though the body of the American boy be clothed in the cheapest of clothing, though his shirt be torn and his trousers, too, not for all the purple and robes of state would he give up his proud privilege of saying 'I am an American.' To be an honest American young man is of greater worth than to be king of a faded and dying splendor."

Such was the expression made by the Rev. John Anderson Jayne, pastor of the Observatory Hill Christian church, Allegheny, during a discourse on what he styles "The Burlesque in Westminster Abbey." Mr. Jayne's text was "At the name of Jesus every knee should bow and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of the Father."

"The scripture lesson read from the strangely majestic Book of Revelations," he said, "was a wonderful lesson. It was the story of a grand conception, a picture of unparalleled splendor and magnificence. It was the picture of the crowning of Jesus Christ, King of Kings, Lord of Lords. Other kings have received great honor. Other kings have been ushered into the seat of power with great acclaim. King Edward, surrounded by the splendor and magnificence of the English court, is about to be crowned king of the English.

Word Picture of Edward's Crowning.

"Crash will go the music! Unfurled will be the banners! Historic Westminster abbey will resound to the tread of a multitude of feet. Te Deums will be sung, sermons will be preached. Banquets will be spread in honor of the ascension of the king. On the morning of next Thursday, if God spares his life, Edward VII., eldest son of the magnanimous and loyable Victoria, will come to his throne. For 60 long years he has been in training for the great event to the end that when next Thursday shall arrive he might come to the throne every inch a king. Gray-bearded and gray-headed, and with rheumatic joints, bowed down with the burden of his years, not the cares of office, he will come into his prerogative.

"No American, however, humble, would change places with him on that day. No American president has ever been so rebuked for his deeds of wrong, by any minister in any pulpit, as has the coming King Edward by the lion-hearted Joseph Parker of London. But on Thursday morning all the past will be quite be forgotten. Royalty will cringe, flunkeyism will prevail. Servility of the most abject kind will bow its head while it laughs in its sleeve. From the islands of the seas, from the continents of the world men will come and plight the fool before the king, help swell the laudations and make Lunnon town ring with cheers."

King Must Listen to the Gospel.

"Clad in their royal purple the king and the queen, the queen as noble as the king has been ignoble, will leave their stately palace and drive to the abbey. Proceeding to their respective stations, the king and the queen will listen to the grand old litany of the Church of England and to the bishop of London while he preaches a short sermon. Strange anamoly is it not? He who will not attend to the duties of his church, he who has been rebuked for his vices from a public pulpit, ere he can receive the crown of his kingdom must listen to the gospel and the songs of the church; it's a sight to make the gods weep. Oh, the irony of it! Oh, the pathos of it! 'Twould be amusing were it not such a serious matter.

"If he is a disbeliever, as an honest man let him declare himself! If he does not accept the teaching of the church in the name of truth and right don't accept the crown given in the name and with the honor of the church! It's better to be an honest infidel than a dishonest king. It's a question, in my mind, however, which performs the greater act of prostitution the king receiving or the church conferring under such circumstances.

A Different Coronation.

"But how different the coronation of the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords. Before the awful seat of Jehovah, sinners with garments made white in the blood of the lamb with songs of rejoicing on their lips shall come, the angelic choristers taking up the grand hallelujah refrain, 'Thou art worthy to reign for thou hast redeemed us by the blood out of every nation and tongue and made us kings and priests upon the earth.' And Jesus, the immaculate Son of God, comes to His throne by the path of sacrifice and receives His crown amid the glad acclamations of a redeemed people. A people out of every nation and tongue, redeemed by grace, of which people you and I may be a part."

APPLAUSE CAME FROM THE CONVICTS

PRISONERS AT RIVERSIDE WELL PLEASED OVER A MUSICALE.

They Were Allowed to Express Their Approval in a Positive Fashion—Alexander Berkman Is Now a Rangeman and Behaving Himself.

A special musical service given yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the big Riverside prison was greatly enjoyed by about 200 convicts. They demonstrated this by loud and frequent applause as each number of the program was finished. The service lasted about two hours. Beside the regular choir of the prison a number of well-known Allegheny musicians lent their services.

During the services a solo was sung by Prof. J. M. Morton, and two solos and a duet were sung by Walter Mears, tenor of the Bellevue Methodist Protestant church, and Samuel Fry of Allegheny. Warden W. McC. Johnston was greatly pleased with the affair, and the concerts will be continued.

The big prison is as healthy as any institution in the country, and there is no fear of smallpox breaking out in it. It has been thoroughly disinfected and every nook and cranny of it treated to a dressing of whitewash.

One of the model prisoners is Alexander Berkman, the man who shot H. C. Frick in 1892, who is now what is called in prison parlance, a rangeman. He has charge of one of the ranges in the east wing, and his duty is to clean and sweep the cells while the inmates are in the workshops, or otherwise engaged. Shortly after Warden Johnston took charge of the big prison, Berkman showed a disposition to evade the rules. His punishment followed swiftly, and since that time he has given his keepers no further trouble. He is treated like a human being and it is now thought that he has become resigned to his imprisonment, as all attempts made for his release by his friends and attorneys have failed.

"Snakes" Wilson still continues his dog-like howlings, but not as frequently as when Warden E. S. Wright was in charge of the prison. Wilson has been given employment in the prison yard, and is commencing to behave himself.

SERVICES AT SCHENLEY WERE FULL OF VIGOR

Brass Band Took the Place of an Organ and the Singing Was Enthusiastic.

The religious services in Schenley park were well attended last night despite the cool weather. The bracing air really seemed to put life into the services, for they were intensely enthusiastic, men and women to the number of hundreds singing with much vigor and devotion. There were two new features and both proved entertaining. The Rev. Dr. Edwin S. Wallace conducted the services and the Knights of Pythias band provided the music. The band accompanied the singers in all the hymns, and for an hour or more the park rang with notes of melodic praise. Benjamin Franklin Butts and his big choir sang some inspiring selections and the band accompanied sweetly and harmoniously.

The band gave a sacred concert for half an hour or more, rendering such pieces as "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light."

Dr. Wallace spoke for 20 minutes on the necessity of one having faith in God. "There is nothing we have so much need of today," he said, "as faith in God. We should know that He is an all-merciful God, that He wills the conversion of a sinner rather than his downfall. Look at nature; look at everything in the various phases of life and living, and consider how He has provided for even the least of nature's creatures. So, too, He provided for the world a Saviour and willed that we should be redeemed in His blood."

At the conclusion of the service an after meeting was held in the tent. It, too, was well attended.

DEPENDS ON BRYAN

If He Will Accept Nomination for Governor of Nebraska Democrats and Populists Will Fuse.

GRAND ISLAND, NEB., June 22.—The Democrats and Populist state conventions will be held in this city Tuesday, and already the question of whether fusion on the state ticket will be accomplished is a topic of earnest discussion on both sides. Several party leaders hope to effect a combination of nominations and platforms that will be acceptable to the fusion forces, and argue that such an arrangement is the only one by which the election of the ticket is possible.

The question of whether William J. Bryan will accept the nomination for governor is one on which, perhaps, depends the possibility of a combination ticket. Little doubt is expressed that if Mr. Bryan shall permit his name to be used, the rest will be easily accomplished.

With Mr. Bryan eliminated from the possibilities, it is hard to predict the action of the two conventions, but many believe there will be two full tickets in the field.

DRAVOSBURG NEW CHURCH

Methodists Dedicate Their New House of Worship Free of Debt. Interesting Exercises.

The First Methodist church of Dravosburg was dedicated yesterday with appropriate ceremonies. A large sum of money was raised and the edifice was dedicated free of debt. At 9 o'clock in the morning a love feast, led by the Rev. James Mechem, was held, and at 10:30 o'clock Bishop John W. Hamilton, D. D., of San Francisco preached the dedicatory sermon.

Sunday school was held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at 2:30 a platform meeting was held. At this service addresses were made by Bishop Hamilton, the Rev. C. M. Smith, D. D., the Rev. Mr. Mechem and other ministers from this locality.

At the Epworth league meeting at 6:30 p. m. an address was made by the Rev. G. W. Smith, D. D. The Rev. T. N. Boyle, Ll. D., presiding elder of the Pittsburgh district, preached the evening sermon. The services will be continued throughout the week, except Saturday.

SHORT SUMMER SERVICES.

Three Braddock Pastors Announce That Evening Services Will Be Brief.

Three Braddock ministers believe in short evening services on hot summer evenings, and although it was cool enough yesterday the brevity program was carried out just the same. At the Parker Avenue Methodist church the pastor, the Rev. George E. Hawes, announced that the evening services would not be longer than 45 minutes for the rest of the summer.

The Rev. O. H. Phillips said he would hold the congregation of the First Christian church not more than 20 minutes to hear a sermon, and the congregation of the First English Lutheran church will have to be satisfied with services of only 20 minutes' duration, so Pastor William J. Bucher said last night.

REPLY ISSUED TO STATEMENT OF OPERATORS

President Mitchell Declares Coal Companies' Profits Are Largely on the Increase.

BIG ARRAY OF FIGURES

Says Miners Are Now Doing More and Better Work Than Before They Were Unionized—He Quotes from Government Reports.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 22.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers today gave out a statement in reply to that recently issued by the coal companies, in which he says:

The coal number of persons employed in and around the anthracite coal mines is 147,650; they are employed never to exceed 200 days in any one year, and they receive as compensation for their services an average of $1.42 for a 10-hour work day. It will be thus noted that they earn annually less than $284. True it is that a 10 per cent increase in wages was granted by the coal operators as a strike concession two years ago, but it is also true that a large portion of this 10 per cent was paid back to the companies to buy the suppression of an old powder grievance; moreover, according to reliable commercial agencies, the cost of living has increased, particularly in the purchase of food stuffs, from 30 to 40 per cent, so that the purchasing power of a miner's earning is less now than before the strike of 1900.

Work of the Miners.

From 1850 to 1900, inclusive, the mines were in active operation an average of 187 days per year, and for each person employed there were produced 363.58 tons of coal per year, or for each day the mines were in operation 2.16 tons were produced per employe; while in the year 1901, against which the operators so bitterly complain, the mines were in operation 194½ days and there were produced 425.43 tons for each person employed, or for each day the mines were in operation 2.36 tons were produced per employe, thus showing conclusively that instead of a deterioration there was a decided improvement in the productive capacity of the men after they became thoroughly organized.

A press bulletin recently issued by Charles D. Walcott, director of the United States geological survey, says that for the year 1901 "The increase in the value of the anthracite product received at the mines showed a gain of $27,746,169, or more than 33 per cent over that of 1900. The average price for the marketed anthracite coal, that is, the product shipped to market or sold the local trade, was $1.87, the highest figure obtained since 1888."

In other words, while, according to President Olyphant, 13 cents per ton represents the operators' increase in the cost of production in 1901, 30 cents per ton, as compared with 1900, represents the increased value of the product to the operators.

Quotes from Court Records.

In the supreme court of Pennsylvania, in re Markle versus Wildbur (Penna. State Reports, page 200), "John Markle, during his testimony, swore that he was appointed superintendent or manager by the articles of co-partnership, at a salary of $15,000 per year, and that under his management, from 1890 to 1894, inclusive, the partnership made profits of over $1,000,000." During the five years referred to by Mr. Markle the government reports show that the home value of coal produced by the anthracite coal companies was $1.51 per ton.

In his annual report to the directors of his company President Truesdale of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western says in substance: "The year 1901 will pass into history as one of the most satisfactory, if not the banner year, for the anthracite coal interests of this country. The tonnage mined, purchased and hauled was much greater than any previous year in the history of the company. The rate per ton per mile earned on coal hauled was 8.91 mills. The present outlook is favorable for an indefinite continuance of these favorable conditions." The Commercial and Financial Chronicle, commenting upon the report of President Olyphant of the Delaware & Hudson, says that "the average of anthracite selling prices for 1901 must have been 50 to 40 cents higher than in 1900, and the profits of the coal mining operations of the Delaware & Hudson in 1901 were $1,407,307."

Yale Crews Confident of Winning the Boat Race

YALE CREWS ARE CONFIDENT OF A VICTORY

Every Blue Oarsmen Is in the Pink of Condition and Ready to Race.

HARVARD VERY STRONG

Crimson Crews Are Said to Be the Greatest That Ever Represented the Famous College—Speed of Boat Will Be Increased.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Gales Ferry, Conn., June 22.—Sunday is a day of complete rest among the big athletes at Broadview, the quarters of the Yale crew, in obedience to the fourth commandment the Sabbath day is remembered. Whether the observance is strict enough to "keep it holy" or not is perhaps a matter in which the consciences of the rowers have some freedom.

Such pastimes as ping pong, letter writing, strolls about the neighborhood and lounging about quarters occupy most of the time. Coach Kennedy puts no greater restraint upon his men Sunday other than the usual training regulations which may not be overstepped under any circumstances until after the great race on Thursday.

Yale Is Confident.

There is a feeling of confidence today among the Yale men that the varsity race can be won by them, but it is far from being over-confidence. Along with it goes the realization that against them is pitted one of the most formidable crews that Harvard has sent out in years and Yale is prepared to put her total strength and sinew into the struggle that is four days away.

One thing that makes the Yale oarsmen and their coaches hopeful is that every man is in the pink of condition, there being not a suggestion of a flaw in the physical trim of a single oarsman from varsity stroke to freshman coxswain.

Coach Kennedy says that he will give the crews no more time rowing; that he has them exactly where he wants them for the race, and it devolves upon him only to keep them there until Thursday.

Ready to Race.

Already four days ahead of the contest the Yale crews are ready for the race. The freshmen are lighter than their adversaries of the Crimson. They are in as fine a condition as ever a freshmen crew that has rowed, but the Harvard freshmen are stronger. It will be training against brawn in the race of the youngsters.

Bushong was a quiet day also at the Harvard rowing quarters at Red Top. In the morning Higginson got a gentleman's four-oared crew together and started out to find a race with a Yale four-oared crew, but was unable to find any.

Harvard Crew Improves.

The four returned to the float, having accepted a challenge for a race with a Yale four-oar to be raced tomorrow noon.

The Harvard crew has improved since it has been at New London, especially during the last few days. Two days more will doubtless increase the speed of the boat enormously, but as Yale's crew has been carefully guarded from Harvard eyes the Crimson oarsmen do not know whether they have reason tonight to be confident of the race or whether there is little chance for them to win the big contest.

Josiah Low, a Harvard senior and nephew of Mayor Seth Low of New York, brought his 30-foot knockabout, Alpheus, up the river tonight and it was anchored off Red Top. The men were all early in bed, feeling much refreshed for their day's lay-off.

WYETH,
Winner of the American Derby.

MUNRO AND WILSON.

Will Race Tonight at the Colosseum. Records May Be Broken.

Everything is in readiness for the race tonight between Lester Wilson of Pittsburgh and Benny Munro of Memphis, Tenn. A telegram was received from Wells, Munro's manager, yesterday afternoon, stating that he and Munro would leave for Pittsburgh last evening and would arrive early this morning. Wells says that Munro is riding fast and will be in good condition for the contest tonight.

Wilson continued his training yesterday afternoon. He rode a 10-mile work-out behind the tandem and his time was the best he has ever done. One mile was ridden in 1:24 and the six miles after the first were all done in less than 7:25.

Some fast amateurs who have not ridden in any of the races at the Colosseum track are entered in the one-half mile and the two-thirds mile handicaps.

The scratch for the one-half mile handicap are Clyde Snyder of Sharpsburg, David Molter, C. C. Hartman, W. B. Wilhelm, S. A. Shirley, Harry Bupp, Charles B. Leonard, Charles Meel, Wilkie Hall, Paul McLain, Percy Brown and Harry Brown. In the two-thirds mile are entered Harry Brown, Paul McLain, Wilkie Hall, Charles Reel, C. B. Leonard, Harry Bupp, S. A. Shirley, W. B. Wilhelm, and C. C. Hartman.

McClelland May Meet Bernstein.

Joe Bernstein's manager writes Billy Corcoran from New York that he would like to bring on the Dewey Champion to meet Jack McClelland here in a go-around contest. Bernstein has been doing some good fighting of late and if a suitable place can be secured McClelland's manager will make the match, as the Pittsburgher is open to fight any one in the world at 122 pounds. Bernstein is booked to meet Young Corbett next month in Chicago. Fred Broad's manager wants a return match with Eddie Kennedy, as their last fight was a fake. If a satisfactory 20-round contest between the two may be arranged.

CRUZADOS TO RACE M'CHESNEY

MATCH TO BE MADE BY OWNERS FOR BIG STAKE.

Great Rivalry Said to Exist Between "Lucky" Baldwin and S. C. Hildreth and Merits of Their Horses Will Be Tried in the Near Future.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, June 22.—As a result of the running of the great American Derby at Washington park yesterday a race will probably be arranged for in the near future between "Lucky" Baldwin's Cruzados and S. C. Hildreth's McChesney.

Both horses were entered for the great event, but were scratched before the race. Cruzados, a day or two before the eventful day, was being driven a trial heat and met with an accident which ended his chances for starting.

McChesney, did not start, it is said, owing to the heavy condition of the track. The horse is better on a dry track and its owner thought there were few chances for his horse running in the money.

Great rivalry is said to exist between the owners of the famous racers, and each is determined to win against the other in the coming match. The race will in all probability be run over the Derby course and will draw thousands of equine lovers to see it.

The stakes will be in the form of a bet made by each horse owner. It will probably be for $20,000, and both Baldwin and Hildreth have signified their willingness to race their horses when they are fit, and to back them to the limit.

BOSTON WON AGAIN.

Defeated Detroit After a Hard Struggle. Umpire Johnstone's Bad Decision.

DETROIT, MICH., June 22.—In a game ful of excitement the Detroits again lost to Boston today. The score might have been closer had not several bad decisions by Umpire Johnstone put the Detroit players up in the air in the latter part of the game.

Harley was put out of the game in the fourth inning for kicking and this so incensed the crowd that after the game they made a rush for the umpire, but the players of both teams gathered around him and escorted him from the grounds in safety. Score:

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—Mitchell was wild today and about driven from the slab in the third inning after he had given three successive bases on balls. Husting, who replaced him, allowed but four hits, but two of these were home run drives into the bleachers by Anderson and McCormick. Attendance, 10,000. Score:

COLUMBIANA NOW CONTROLS TAYLER'S SEAT

Ohio County Is Lying Low in the Eighteenth District Congressional Battle.

JONES MAY BE IN RACE

Former Lieutenant Governor Likely to Enter Lists Against Judge Kennedy—Stark and Mahoning Leaders Anxiously Await Developments

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Columbus, O., June 22.—The attitude of Columbiana county in the congressional fight in the Eighteenth district is causing the politicians of Stark and Mahoning, the other two counties of the district, much uneasiness. The latter counties have fixed the time for their primaries, but no move in this direction has as yet been made by Columbiana. Whether or not the county will select new delegates or use those which served at the Alliance convention which renominated the Hon. Robert W. Tayler, who has declined, is a matter not yet determined by the county committee.

It is generally admitted that it lies within the power of Columbiana to dictate the nomination. The leaders of the county have been importuned time and again by the friends of the candidates in the other counties to indicate what they propose to do in the coming contest, but they decline to make this known. They are maintaining a silence particularly provoking to the politicians of Stark and Mahoning. There are some shrewd manipulators in Columbiana and it is not likely that they will show their hand until they enter the convention.

A report has reached the state capital that former Lieut. Gov. Asa W. Jones of Youngstown may be induced to enter the congressional race against Judge James J. Kennedy of that city, on whom the county is endeavoring to unite as its candidate for the nomination.

Should he decide to do so it would mean the undoing of both himself and Kennedy. Jones' candidacy would be obnoxious to Stark and Columbiana, and he would stand no possible show of winning. He might be able to command some strength in his own county, but none outside. While presiding over the senate during the bitter fight incident to the election of Senator Hanna, four years ago, he aided Hanna's opponents, the Kurtz-Bushnell faction, in every way possible, and also has been in disrepute with the administration forces. The part he played in that memorable contest sounded his death knell politically. As long as the Hannaites remain in control, they will see to it that he receives no office whatever within the gift of the people of Ohio.

Therefore, if he decides to enter the race the only effect his candidacy would have would be to place in jeopardy Mahoning's chances for the nomination. The situation in Stark is becoming complicated. M. D. Ratchford of Massillon, state labor commissioner, has announced himself as a candidate and expects to draw heavily from the labor vote. He was president of the United Mine Workers of America for several years and also served as a member of the United States industrial commission, having been appointed by President McKinley. The other candidates of the county, ex-County Treasurer T. Harvey Smith of Massillon; Attorney James G. Grant, of Canton, and Editor Phelps of the Alliance Review, are making a still hunt for the nomination.

Plenty of Good Timber.

Smith is the best politician of the lot and will probably capture more delegates than any of his competitors. He is not an orator, but possesses splendid business qualifications and would doubtless make a capable congressman. Ratchford, Grant and Phelps are forceful speakers and men of recognized ability. There is no dearth of good congressional timber in this county, and, in fact, this is true in the other counties. Kennedy of Mahoning has considerable force and has gained distinction in his profession.

Columbiana's most favored son is State Treasurer Isaac B. Cameron, who is known as one of the most astute political managers in the state. He is big-brained, popular and is a good mixer. He has not thus far stated that he would consent to his name going before the convention. He could command the solid backing of his county and in doing so would enter the convention with more delegates than any other candidate. He is a pastmaster in the game of politics and is too shrewd to make a declaration of his intentions at an inopportune time. The convention will be held at Salem, Columbiana county, June 29.

HORSE STEALING THE CHARGE.

Young Alleghenian With Another Man's Property Was Quickly Overhauled.

Early yesterday morning John Cole, a farmer living near Wexford, telephoned to Allegheny police headquarters that a horse and cart had been stolen from his barn during the night and that he thought the thief was heading for Allegheny.

Detective Thomas J. O'Brien was placed on the case and about 10 o'clock he caught William Wetter, aged 19 years, of No. 1460 East street, Allegheny, with the rig on Perrysville avenue. Wetter claims he bought the rig from a man for $35. He will be given a hearing today.

A Surprising Bargain in Shirtwaist Suits, $3.50.

Some ten days ago a drummer for a maker of shirtwaist suits came along and he had a sample of a first-rate sightly suit that sells regularly for $5.

He offered the suits to us for a price that enables us to say for them $3.50. didn't ask why he chose to sell so cheap; didn't care to know. Between you and however, we didn't expect the suits would ever come.

But they did come—arrived last Saturday afternoon. As good a suit as we ever saw for $5, of the Shirtwaist style, and that means an immense bargain for our price, $3.50.

Made of pink, light blue, rose, tan, green and gray chambray—two styles: Some with white vest, bishop sleeves and flounce skirt; others finished with self bands piped with white, cuffs and collar trimmed same way, and top of flounce also trimmed with bands to match waist.

Ready this morning in second floor Tailor-Made Suit Department.

Today's Millinery News.

Nothing interests a woman more than fresh news of headwear—even if she has all the hats she wants she still likes to read of new creations.

We would like you to see our show of Parasol Hats. Perhaps nobody else calls them by that name, but we think it describes them exactly. They are large and soft and dainty, the kind that ought to be worn with a parasol to match. Some are covered with a regular parasol-cover of lace, appliqued on chiffon. They get their droopiness and softness from the materials—basket braids and chiffon and leghorn straw.

Following is some of the best news we've yet given of Midsummer Millinery:

New sea-shore Felt Hats both for women and misses. Smart and at the same time very serviceable. Just the thing for damp weather. Real Summer weights. $3.50 and $5. Much under price.

None to early to see about the Fourth of July Hat. It is here in all the glory of superb trimmings or in the simplest effects. Such half prices as $1, $2.50, $3.50, $5, $7.50, $10, $12.50, including the Phipps & Atchison Sample Hats.

The most impressive and finest of French Hats for half prices—$12.50 instead of $25—$14 instead of $28—$17.50 instead of $35—$22.50 instead of $45.

Children's Outing Hats—all the youthful styles—broadbrim Sailor Linens, Ducks, Crashes and Straws—25c up to $2.50.

Rough and Ready Hats, trimmed with sashes in every color—$1.50 instead of $3.

New Long Black Taffeta Silk Coats.

$25—but the right price is $35.
Sizes, 36 to 42.

Another example of clever buying on the part of our buyer, who spent last week in New York looking for bargains.

These arrived Saturday and on account of their excellence and general style are good enough for afternoon and evening wear. Specifically they are for traveling.

Loose fronts, half-fitting box backs, triple shoulder capes, finished with bands of same silk, tailor notched or flat collar, all seams strapped with bias bands.
